Seek additional $218k for school renovations

by Arlene Surprenant
Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski told the Permanent Building Committee (PBC) Tuesday night he will submit a warrant article to seek town meeting approval for an estimated $218,500 to complete the high school renovation. The money, which will probably come from a bond issue and some SBAB reimbursement, will pay for three items included in the original plan.

An estimated $88,000 will go toward auditorium renovations, including painting, replacement of seats, and repairs in the stage area.

An estimated $75,000 will go toward the rebuilding of a concrete block building for the storage of seasonal sports equipment. It will be built on the present foundation of the old building, which recently burned down.

An estimated $85,000, less $30,000 from a line item in the original request, will go toward bleacher repairs. Stapczynski said he expects to have bleachers taken apart and sandblasted and the seats lifted three feet off the ground to allow for a better view by those in bottom rows.

Stapczynski stressed that since the figures are only an estimate, they could come in higher or lower. He hopes to have firm numbers by the end of March before discussion with the Finance Committee.

Because he realizes "time is of the essence," Stapczynski hopes to "dovetail" any extra work into the present schedule.

New review format for school budget

by Arlene Surprenant
The Wilmington School Committee hopes to bring forth a school budget for next year which will "meet all the needs of the children," according to Supt. of Schools Robert Horan.

During their first budget meeting last Wednesday, school committee members felt their way through a new review format devised by Horan. Confusion arose occasionally but, overall, members were in favor of any changes made.

Reading and Language Arts Director Brenda Squire, who was present to justify her department's budget requests, was pleased with the new approach too.

"I don't know of any director or department head who isn't very pleased to come in and tell you their needs," she told committee members.

The process this year is different in that it involves more people at the public level. According to Horan, all teachers have already turned in forms detailing their needs to their supervisors. Also, he said, building principals, directors, and department heads have been asked to attend the meetings to give the school committee "some sense of rationale" behind their funding requests. This way, committee members can ask questions which will help them decide how to apportion the money.

Horan anticipates some problems because of reductions in last year's budget.

"We haven't made a big public outcry about what we've lost," he said, but added that some teachers still have not been hired back and afternoon transportation has been cut. Also, there is "virtually no money" for additional texts in major subjects and "we've had to run deficits in various accounts in textbooks." Horan expects to put "some kind of semi-freeze on spending the rest of the year."

Looking ahead, Horan sees an immediate need to replace some audio-visual equipment and foresees asking for a separate warrant article to do this.

Open budget deliberations will continue at 7 p.m. in the Roman House on January 23, 29, and February 5.

Center plans

The latest plans for Wilmington Center are based on what was, ten years ago, called the "Early Start Option." In addition to a new bridge carrying Route 62 over Main Street and the railroad tracks, the plan calls for a connecting road (upper right) between Main Street and Church Street, and road between Church Street and Middlesex Avenue, between the fire station and the post office.

WRA to hire planning consultant for redesign of Wilmington Center

The work of planning for the new Wilmington Square, and the new bridge over the railroad at Burlington Avenue has started. The Wilmington Redevelopment Authority (WRA), in its meeting of last week decided to hire a planning consultant, who can provide an analysis of what will be needed in the future, as the work progresses. The state DPW is planning extensive work in 1987.

Tentatively the WRA wants a person who will work not over 40 hours a month, for maybe five months. The WRA does not want to spend over $10,000 in this phase of the work to be done.

Turned down was a verbal proposal that a model of Wilmington Square be constructed with movable model buildings.

Turned down also, at this time, was a proposal for discussion of a CARD proposal. CARD is an acronym for state programs of a type of urban renewal, in limited street areas. Chairman Jay Donovan held that it was too early to discuss the use of CARD.

But the members are interested in planning for a suitable area into which the firms now located near Church and Main Street will be able to move. A municipal parking area, too, will probably be in their plans. The WRA members are not interested in playing the part of landlords to the local business firms.

There are a dozen firms which will have to move, or go out of business, because of the construction program. The Wilmington Chamber of Commerce has appointed a Center Task Force (CTF) composed of some of the merchants who are involved. The chairman is Denise Gentile, local hairdresser.

The CTF has had a meeting or two, but without results. Last week, for the first time, it was able to discuss its problems with a town official, Selectman Rocco DePasquale. The meeting lasted for several hours.

The State Department of Public Works has tentatively set a date for the last week of March for a public hearing concerning plans for construction of the bridge, etc. The meeting, however, will be in April.

The WRA became involved on the Wilmington Square project after a town meeting vote last year. Established several years ago, the WRA took over 40 acres of unproductive land south of Eames Street and developed it into an industrial park.

Jay Donovan of Mill Road is the chairman of the WRA. Other members are Carl Backman, vice chairman; Vaughn Surprenant, treasurer; Sid Kaizer, assistant treasurer; and Nicki Johnson, secretary.

Subdivision plan filed

Wilmington developer Paul Butt has filed a plan for a residential subdivision, in what he terms Hamilton Woods. Butt filed a preliminary plan January 21, with the Wilmington Planning Board.

There will be a street, going off Route 62 in North Wilmington and to be known as Earle's Way. It will be about 700 feet long.

Eighteen houselots are shown on the plans. There will be a driveway off Salem Street, to service four or five of the lots.

Consideration by the planning board of preliminary plans takes, sometimes, several weeks. After that the final development plans are filed, and the public hearing process begins. That could be sometime in April or May.

Previously, Butt had sought to have the land rezoned on three occasions - once for a motel, once for a new location for Dynamics Research Corp., and once for condos.

Industrial park plans on hold

Riverview 93, the industrial subdivision by the Ipswich River at the North Reading-Wilmington town line, is on a temporary hold.

Peter L. Johnson, a vice-president of the developers, Spaulding & Slye, and Margaret A. Yates-Berg, an attorney, agreed with the Wilmington Planning Board to postpone any public hearing until sometime in June. The planning board voted unanimously to agree. Riverview 93 has problems about disposal of sewage. A plan has been developed which meets all needs, except that the Wilmington Board of Health objects, and the Reading Water Commissioners are worrying about their water supply, which comes from that part of the Ipswich River area.

Engineers representing Spaulding & Slye have talked of the sewage plans with the town of Reading, and with the Wilmington Water & Sewer Commissioners. In both cases there have been tentative agreements.

But with the Wilmington Board of Health decision hanging over the scene, the developers feel they will need more time to clear up all problems. The Wilmington Planning Board will probably make notice available in next week's paper that the hearing, slated for February 4, is being postponed.

Rep. Beckwith's office hours

State Representative Geoffrey C. Beckwith, who represents Reading, North Reading and Wilmington's precinct 3 in the Massachusetts House, this week announced the schedule for his January district office hours.

"A state representative must be accessible to everyone in his or her district," said Beckwith, who holds regular office hours each month in order to make it easier for constituents to meet with him whenever they have a question or a problem concerning state government.

Beckwith will hold January office hours at two locations: on Thursday evening January 23rd, he will be in the hearing room of the North Reading Town Hall from 5:30 to 7 p.m.; and on Thursday evening, January 23rd, he will be in the conference room of the Reading Public Library on Middlesex Avenue from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

"Interested citizens should never hesitate to call or write me any time," said Beckwith, who invited residents to get in touch with him at either his Boston office (State House, Room 236, Boston Mass. 02133, 772-2430), or at home (252 Ash Street, Reading, Mass. 01867, 944-5030). "But these office hours will provide folks with an additional opportunity to see me personally and offer input, ask for information, or request assistance with a problem regarding state government."

Break discovered at Tewksbury Post Office

One week after an attempted break was thwarted by passersby, intruders found their way into the Tewksbury Post Office sometime last Sunday. Nothing was reported taken in the break, but the intruders did make a failed attempt to gain entry to one of three safes kept in the office.

No entry to the safe was gained, but the safe was damaged and could not be opened, leaving the post office somewhat short of supplies, including various denominations of stamps.

The break is being investigated by Federal Postal Investigators and by local police. Post Master Angelo D'Ambrosio confirmed the break Tuesday afternoon.

According to D'Ambrosio, the break occurred sometime after 3:15 a.m. on Sunday, January 12 and before 10 a.m. the next day when crews showed up to work on a Holiday schedule. The intruders gained entry into the building from a side window and proceeded to topple over a safe containing stamps and money orders. The safe was not opened, however.

Postal Inspector Michael Norton is investigating the break along with Tewksbury Police Detective Sgt. Paul Johnson. Norton said Tuesday, "We have no known postal loss at this time."

He added that the intruders made "at least a half-hearted attempt to do something with" one of three safes in the building. Norton also notes that the intruders passed up "articles of obvious value" such as radios and calculators that were in plain open view.

Two men attempted to break into the post office on January 7, according to Norton. Those intruders were scared away from the dock area to the rear of the building shortly before midnight by two men making a delivery to a nearby donut shop.

Investigators are looking into the possibility that the two incidents are related, but have no solid evidence to link the two episodes.

25 Years Ago

John Brooks of Salem Street, city editor of the Boston Daily Record announced his candidacy for re-election to the board of selectmen.

Five Wilmington skaters took prizes at the Adirondack Outdoor Speed Skating Championships held at Saranac Lake, N.Y. - Janet Tighe of Chestnut Street, Jeff Williamson of Lowell Street, Billy Colter, Patty Fiske of Church Street and Nancy Weinberg of Burlington Avenue.

Attorney Fred Corum, former state member of the Wilmington Housing Authority, addressing the board of selectmen advised that the town should sell the houses in the veterans housing project on Wildwood Street. He said that three years ago he was advised by the state housing board that Wilmington should sell.

Peter Neilson, son of Capt. and Mrs. Larz Neilson of High Street, was notified that he was one of 19 students in Massachusetts to be awarded honors in the Science Talent Search for the Westinghouse Scholarships and Awards. Peter's project was "The Effect of Excess Gravity on Plant Growth."

The Whitefield PTA was scheduled to be presented its charge by Mrs. Roy Milley of Arlington, district four director of the Mass. Congress of Parents and Teachers.

A help wanted ad offered $15 to someone who would do housework two hours a day, five days a week.

Among those on the high school honor roll were R. Dukas, C. Kasabuski and A. Volpe.

A five room single house with porch, new heating plant, storm windows etc., was offered by County Real Estate for $10,400.

A public hearing at the town hall on Chapter 322 of the betterment act of 1955 was to ask that town water be installed - on Marcia Road from North Street north for 1,150 feet; on Ballardvale Street from the existing system north for 2,240 feet; on Lawrence Street from the existing system north 850 feet and on Butters Row from Main Street to Chestnut 3,100 feet.

"The Animal"

"The Animal" is the name of this 51.5 ton press, located in the ZBR building on Industrial Way in Wilmington.

'The Animal' gets a mate

ZBR is a printing firm located on Industrial Way in Wilmington. It ranks in the top 500 printing firms in the U.S., and it has a specialty of printing books and booklets. The letters in its name represent initials of the firm's owners. They also inspire the nickname of "Zebra."

There are a number of printing presses in the Zebra domain. The largest of these is dubbed the "Animal," and it has to be seen to be believed.

The Animal weighs in at 51 1/2 tons, and prints both sides at the same time of 64 pages, each eight and one-half inches by 11 inches. A Miehle, it is probably the largest press of its kind in the United States.

The Animal is now getting a duplicate machine. Call it the Animal's Mate.

Zebra had to tear down a part of the outside wall, to allow the Mate to get in. A new door, bigger than any other, was made for the occasion.

The first section of the Mate arrived Monday morning, January 20th. That unit weighs in at 20 1/2 tons and a rigging crew from Russell Stimpson of Malden worked most of the day, just to get that section in.

It should be a little easier to get in the remaining two pieces, for they do not weigh as much.

Each of the parts is being moved on rollers, as could probably be expected. But, to those who could see the riggers at work, it was "just like building the pyramids." They found it to be very exciting.

Fred Foster of Chelmsford is the foreman in charge of the Animal. He will also be in charge of the Animal's Mate. Fred thinks it will take three weeks to set up the press and get it running.

and its "mate"

The new press for ZBR was moved in three sections. The section above weighs over 20 tons. The company had to enlarge a shipping door to accommodate the size of the press.

Through the years in Wilmington Square

©Copyright 1986 by
Capt. Larz Neilson

Sometimes it is good to step back and take a look at what has passed.

Wilmington Square, in about a year or so, is to have the Burlington Avenue bridge rebuilt, to be at a higher level than it is now. It will be quite a construction job. Undoubtedly there will be people who will moan and groan, for there will be street detours for weeks if not months.

Sometime about 1904 - 1905 the bridge was raised. It is the same structure that exists now, or so it is to be believed.

The present structure dates, quite probably, from the 1870s. Except for the planks it is of steel, and that steel was probably fabricated in Boston and taken out on a railroad flatcar.

When the old Boston & Lowell Railroad was constructed in 1834-5 the directors wanted to have no crossings of the railroad at street grade. They almost achieved their aim. In Wilmington, in a distance of less than five miles there were eight bridges constructed.

The right-of-way over which those bridges were built, is still the original right-of-way - over 150 years old. There is reason to believe it is the oldest right-of-way for railroads in the United States.

Yes, the Baltimore & Ohio tracks were laid earlier, but this paper has been told that the original B&O tracks and right-of-way are no longer being used.

In the beginning there were two bridges at Burlington Avenue.

There was a bridge over the Middlesex Canal, and then, about 500 feet easterly the railroad had a bridge. The canal bridge was in existence as late as 1853.

The original railroad station was constructed southerly of the Burlington Avenue bridge, for the Boston & Lowell Railroad. About 200 yards away was the station of the Wilmington & Andover RR. That station stood in the fork of the railroad, where the Wildcat RR branches off from the Boston & Maine.

That Andover station was moved later to a Church Street site. It stands today, almost across the street from the Masonic Hall. It may not be the oldest railroad station in the United States, but it certainly is antique.

In the beginning the passengers from Andover walked a couple of hundred yards southerly to the Wilmington station of the B&L, to board the Boston trains. About 50 years later the Boston & Maine, which grew from the Wilmington & Andover, had brought out the Boston & Lowell. But by that time the Andover patrons had been going to Boston for many years (since 1845) via the tracks that went through North Wilmington.

It was in 1892 or probably 1893, before the bridge was raised, that the Woburn & Billerica street cars began to go through Wilmington. The ties were laid in 1892. The writer's father, that year, fresh off the boat from Denmark, was living down on Chestnut Street in what is now the Charles Rooney home. His first job in the new world was lugging the ties for that street car track. It was along the old Middlesex Canal, where Sweetheart Plastics is today.

The Woburn & Billerica was the first electric street car trolley in Massachusetts. So the writer has been told.

But it was an extension of other companies. There was the Medford & Winchester, and the Winchester & Woburn trolleys, drawn by horses. Eventually all were electric.

The railroad station in 1900 was a two and one-half story structure. The lower story was where the ticket agent had his office, and the waiting room. The upper story was a store, for tobacco and what was called West India goods (alcoholic beverages). It was reached by an elevated walkway from the Burlington Avenue bridge.

That part of the business at the building must have come about as the result of a change in the liquor laws. In the 1870s liquor could not be sold in Wilmington, and was not, except for the "bootleg" sales of Billy Ames, in the house on the corner of Clark Street and Middlesex Avenue.

The railroad station burned down about the year 1901.

Among those who helped to rescue materials, and the only person whose name persists in this Wilmington tradition was Mary Buzzell. Mary and her husband, Dr. Daniel Buzzell, lived in the old

First postoffice

The home of Dr. Daniel and Mary Buzzell stood where the New England Telephone building is today, on Main Street. This is the home in which she was living when the railroad station burned.

It was in this home, on Marcy 27, 1834, that the first postoffice of Wilmington was established by James Jaques. The home had been owned by the Jaques family for about a century.

Jaques House, about 100 yards distant. It stood where the telephone building is today.

The railroad bridge was raised in, probably, 1904-5. One of the contractors was Herbert Barrows, who for many years owned the farm where Avco is today.

Herb bought that farm, 70 acres in 1897, for $700. He had been a teacher in Reading High School.

In 1856 the postoffice was in the same building that served as a railroad station, owned by J.A. Ames. The postmaster was named Amasa Waterman. Waterman was postmaster for about nine months.

Joseph A. Ames became the postmaster on January 15, 1857, and held the office until he retired in 1881, always in the same building as the railroad station.

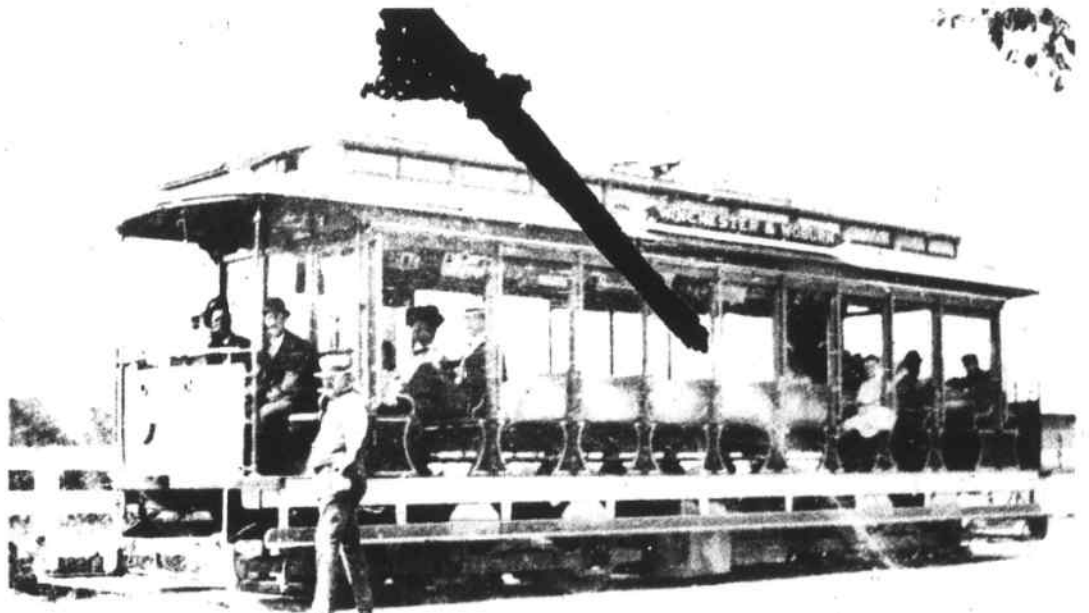

When the bridge was being raised he got a contract to cart fill, from the today area of Sweetheart Plastics, to the roadways of Church Street and Burlington Avenue.

Of course the power used to transport that fill came from some of Herb's horses. That was 80 years ago. If Herb were alive today he could still tell the listener, gladly, the names of those horses, and their good and bad characteristics.

Today the names of the horses would be of no importance. Today is the thousands of vehicles which go through Wilmington Square, and the traffic jams that are of importance.

A new bridge is needed. Hopefully, after 25 years of painful waiting, that bridge will be constructed.

Early streetcar

A streetcar in Wilmington Square, about 1906. The company is the Woburn & Billerica, which was a part of a company which operated other street car lines. Notice the Winchester & Woburn sign on top of the car. The motorman is Noonan, and beside him is Rudolph (Dolph) Porter. The third person is Charles Sargent, Wilmington selectman.

Dolph Porter loved to have his picture taken, as is evidently the case in this photo. The photographer was probably Mildred Holt, daughter of the Wilmington Postmaster Milton Holt, who became postmaster on Nov. 27, 1903.

Editorial

An idea worth exploring

Is it a good idea for Wilmington to be exploring the possibility of starting its own light department at this time?

The selectmen are toying with the idea of putting a warrant article in the annual town meeting for just such a move.

This may seem like a wild-eyed idea for a town to be exploring, but there are some good reasons for making the move at this time. And even if the town does not go ahead with the establishment of its own department, it is still not bad tactics to have the officials of the Reading Municipal Light Board realize that Wilmington could, in fact, break away and start its own department.

Wilmington customers use 60 percent of the electricity sold by Reading Light. This income is very nice for the town of Reading, since the town has very little industry to contribute to its tax base.

This doesn't do a whole lot for Wilmington. The light department is run by officials elected by Reading voters. Wilmington people have neither vote nor voice in the running of the department. In fact, Wilmington officials have been rebuffed in their attempts to be heard before the Reading Light Board.

The Wilmington Chamber of Commerce has hired the firm of Bernstein and Smick to do some investigating, and they have come up with some interesting information.

One interesting theory is that by shifting higher costs to heavy commercial users, the RMLD thereby shifts the higher costs to Wilmington customers, since Reading has few customers in that class.

The attorneys have also been exploring the amounts Reading has been charging its own town for street lighting, compared to what Wilmington has been charged. It seems there is a difference.

In addition to these local factors, there is the matter of Seabrook. The Reading Light Board, a few years ago, bought into the Seabrook nuclear plant. Seabrook has run into phenomenal costs, costs which will be passed on to customers of owning companies once the plant begins generating electricity.

But what if Wilmington were to pull out of Reading Light before Seabrook is turned on? Would Wilmington customers still have to pay for Seabrook costs?

Of course, if Wilmington were to pull out of Reading Light, the town would have to buy the lines and equipment which the RMLD has in Wilmington. And will Reading's Seabrook debt be assessed as part of the assets that Wilmington must buy?

Wilmington has been conferring with consultants from Arthur D. Little, the renowned Cambridge research firm. It is not just a case of a few officials flying in the dark with no advice.

It could be that the Seabrook debt must be carried, and that the start-up costs for a Wilmington light department would be prohibitive. Or maybe there is enough profit in the electricity used by Wilmington customers to pay off the costs. For sure there is enough profit in Wilmington customers to make Reading Light nervous about losing them.

Maybe Wilmington will simply maneuver into a favorable position for negotiating with Reading Light.

If Wilmington doesn't begin preparing to establish its own department, it could find itself stuck with no alternative and maybe a lot of bills.

Dealing with loss of a loved one

The death of a family member or friend often challenges the coping skills of children and adolescents. Early intervention makes it possible to keep young people psychologically healthy during such a time of predictable stress.

On Tuesday, January 28, the Wilmington Community Schools will present the Good Grief Program from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Wilmington High School Library. Dr. Sandra Fox, ACSW, director of the Good Grief Program at the Judge Baker Guidance Center in Boston, at that time will discuss what is known about children and death and how we can help bereaved youngsters. She will also show a videotaped puppet presentation on "The Death of a Friend: Helping Children Cope with Grief and Loss." There will be an opportunity to discuss the video and ask questions.

The best time to get information about how to help bereaved children is before it is needed, so don't stay away because you feel your children won't be affected. Everyone is encouraged to attend this informative program.

Letters to the Editor

To whom it may concern:

On Tuesday, Jan. 14, one of the coldest, most bitter days of this winter, I arrived home to discover that for the fourth time since September my rubbish had been upset by your dog.

This was the second time it happened on a very windy day. In minus degree weather I was pulling trash out of the ice and snow with bare hands, as it is difficult to grasp garbage and tissues that are stuck to snow while wearing gloves. My rubbish had been blown up and down the street and into my neighbor's yard. As I was cleaning the area up I noticed blood in the snow. Your dog must have cut his tongue or paw on something in my trash. You as a dog owner are supposed to be obeying the leash law.

Please, if you care about your dog, comply with the law. If you don't care about him and you live in the Shawsheen - Reed Street area, please keep him confined on Tuesdays until after my trash has been picked up.

Thank you,
A Concerned Citizen

Dear Larz:

I'm sorry to hear the Senior Center was vandalized. However, last week's letter from "Nosey Nancy" was totally unfair.

How can you condemn the youth of Wilmington collectively for one isolated incident? I'm not trying to diminish what happened. Vandalism is a problem. Perhaps more stringent punishments are needed. Yet, to place the blame, or the responsibility on the either youth of Wilmington is clearly unreasonable.

Her comment at the close of the letter, "They want a youth center?" infuriates me. I wonder if the rest of the town feels the same way? I hope not; that would be a shame.

I can sympathize with her feelings of frustration over the incident. Nevertheless, comments such as the aforementioned don't really help a town already in need of places for their youths to be able to go. Look around Nancy; you won't find much for the youth of this town.

Clearly, the high school renovation is a positive step. A youth center would be nice, though.

To say "no" to a youth center because the youths are undeserving is quite another. Surely, if not a youth center, then certainly such attitudes as Nancy's are not needed.

Jim Wallace

Dear Larz:

Would you believe . . . a Wilmington Light Dept.? No!

Could we believe that completion of the high school renovation would be done on schedule?

How about plans to unify and beautify Wilmington's Main Street businesses?

Are our streets safe for bicycle riders yet?

Come on, town officials, let's get the present million dollar projects done first before tackling a "real long shot."

Thank you,
Tony Ardito

Dear Larz:

The purpose of this letter is to praise the students of Wilmington High School.

Recently, the students held a benefit for the Daniel Rollins Scholarship Fund. Danny was our nephew. Although we are devastated by his untimely death, it renews our spirit when young people perform such an altruistic act. We are both educators and have always believed in the goodness of young people and have emphasized their favorable attributes whenever possible.

We believe this benefit is a testimony both to Danny's memory and to the young people of the Wilmington community. In their grief, they made a positive statement about themselves. They gave unselfishly of their time and money to help a scholarship fund grow which will ultimately benefit one of their peers. This outpouring of compassion has both comforted and touched all of Danny's family.

Thank you for the students, faculty, staff and administrators of Wilmington High School.

Sincerely,
Lyn D. Hemminger

Markey visits Wilmington school

by Arlene Surprenant
Congressman Ed Markey turned teacher for a day as he gave West Intermediate students in Wilmington a quick lesson in world affairs, diplomacy, and citizen responsibilities.

At the invitation of teacher Tom Meyers and the social studies department, Markey was present last Thursday to briefly address seventh and eighth graders and answer any questions they might have. During the visit, he also met with faculty members and invited guests and took time out to greet several elderly citizens at the school for the senior citizen lunch program.

During the hour, talks ranged over several topics. However, Markey drew the most response in two informal polls, one on whether to invade Libya and "knock off" Khadafy and the other on whether to rate MTV videos.

Even though the congressman called Khadafy "one of the most dangerous people who has lived on this planet," he attempted to explain the merits of diplomatic handling of the Libyan situation. The majority of students, however, raised their hands in favor of quick action by the military.

Students again raised their hands, disapproving any form of video censorship as Markey spoke out in favor of voluntary control by parents at the home level.

Markey challenged students to take care of the poor through proper legislation.

"You live in about as good a place as God ever created," he told his audience. He went on to say that because they have been given so much in Wilmington, students and their parents now have a responsibility to give something back.

Markey touched on good citizenship, explaining that one of the most important things students can do, as good citizens, is be aware and understand all the issues.

"The more you learn, the more you realize the world is a much bigger place than Wilmington," he said.

The congressman tried to explain why the United States continually spends money on nuclear arms and defense, ending with his often expressed view that both U.S. and Soviet Union leaders "should bury Star Wars in the ground."

Being a congressman and serving his country, said Markey, is "the greatest honor an American can have." Even though he's been a congressman for 10 years, he added, "I still get goosebumps when I look at it (the Capitol dome in Washington D.C.)."

In a private session, Markey elaborated on his goals for 1986.

"First I'd like to see the Pats beat the Bears by a 17-14 score," he said with an easy grin.

More importantly, Markey said he wants to make sure that the Gramm-Rudman bill doesn't "gut" student loans and aid for education or "adversely affect" health care, elderly programs, or job training programs "and incentives which help create jobs in Wilmington. He also said he would like to "open up some constructive debate" on nuclear arms, pointing out that it's very difficult to work toward arms control with Star Wars looming in the background.

Markey's visit
Congressman Ed Markey met with some senior citizens during his visit to the West Intermediate School last Thursday.

Spotlighters present 'Apples and Oranges'

The Silver Lake Spotlighters, Inc. will present three performances of a new musical play Thursday through Saturday, January 23 through 25, at 8 p.m., at the United Methodist Church, Main Street (Rte. 38), Woburn.

"Apples and Oranges," with book, music and lyrics by Lauren Cochran and musical arrangements and additional songs by Mario Cruz, is a funny, touching look at community theatre and the people in it.

From the ordeal of auditions, through the weeks of rehearsal, to the exciting climax of opening night, this original musical reveals the theatrical process and its participants with keen wit and genuine fondness.

All the familiar "types" are on stage - the outrageous prima donna and the shallow-but-handsome leading man, the homosexual and the stud, the sweet soprano and the tough techie, the not-very-talented chorus person and the over-diplomatic producer, the burned-out director, and a rare find, the real actor.

"Apples and Oranges" goes beyond these stereotypes, however, and reveals the real-life sensitivity and vulnerability of these very special individuals who populate the "community theatre."

Drug policy invoked for ski trip incident

by Arlene Surprenant
An "unfortunate incident" involving seven high school students on a Wilmington High School Ski Club trip to Quebec over the weekend has led to five suspensions and a thorough investigation into the matter by Wilmington school officials.

According to WHS Principal Paul Fleming, who was first apprised of the incident Tuesday morning by Superintendent Robert Horan and ski club advisors Frank Birmingham and William Peabody, one student was charged with drug possession and the others with consumption or possession of alcohol during the trip. Approximately 40 students from the two intermediate schools and the high school made the trip, said Fleming.

Five of the students are undergoing disciplinary action for violating the school's drug policy. Assistant Principals Jack Lynch and Ed Woods will be meeting with the parents of the other two students, who were not in strict violation of the drug policy, Fleming said.

According to school policy, the student found to be in possession of an illegal drug was picked up in Canada by his parents, said Fleming. And since this is his second offense, he has been suspended for 10 days and must face a school committee hearing before he will be admitted back to school.

Four others are considered first offenders and have been suspended for eight days. After parental meetings with school officials, this could be reduced to four days.

Horan expressed satisfaction with the handling of the incident by Birmingham and Peabody.

"It appears everything was handled pretty well," Horan said, adding, however, that "it can be dangerous when something occurs out of the country."

All officials contacted were of the opinion that this incident shouldn't adversely affect future ski club activities.

"I don't think the activities of a few kids should be held against the others," said Horan.

Fleming was quick to note that he's been all for enlarging and adding to available programs for Wilmington youth. He said he hopes this incident doesn't affect the ski program.

Birmingham pointed out "the majority of kids were not to blame." Both he and Peabody stressed that most youngsters had a good time and behaved properly. They also explained that this is the first incident of its kind in all the years they've been running the ski club, which had its origins at the North Intermediate School.

Obituary

Elizabeth Finn

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Finn of Huntington Beach, California died suddenly Monday January 13 at her residence, 17291 Apal Lane.

Mrs. Finn, 70 years of age, was born in Arlington, Mass., the daughter of the late Jane (Barrett) and the late Jeremiah Regan. She lived in the Brighton area during her youth, summered in Wilmington for many years prior to becoming a long-time permanent resident; lived in Florida for 14 years and moved to California three years ago.

For many years she served as assistant supervisor in the Brighton High School cafeteria.

Mrs. Finn was the widow of William J. Finn and is survived by her two daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth McCarthy of Massillon, Ohio and Mrs. Mildred Geister of Huntington Beach, California; her two sisters, Mrs. Mary Monroe of Dorchester and Mrs. Anna Reagan; her four grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The funeral was held from the W.S. Cavanaugh & Son Funeral Home, 374 Main St. Wilmington Saturday at 9:15 a.m. followed by a funeral mass at St. Dorothy's Church at 10:00 celebrated by the Rev. J. Kevin McAndrew. Interment followed in the family lot, Wildwood Cemetery.

Marianne Kelley weds James Connor

Marianne Kelley of Main Street, Stoneham, daughter of Mary Kelley of Highland Avenue, Somerville, became the bride of James Connor, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Connor of Marie Drive, Wilmington on September 21.

The mid-afternoon ceremony was performed before the altar of St. Catherine's Church in Somerville by Father Carr.

JoAnne D'Vidio, of Reading, sister of the bride served as matron of honor while bridesmaids included Susan Foley and Maureen Nichols of Somerville, both close friends of the bride and Lisa Liston of Malden, cousin of the bride.

Steve Bavota of Billerica, served his friend as best man while ushering duties were in charge of Paul Campbell, William McCann, Jack MacDonald, Keith MacDonald.

Given in marriage by her brother, Joseph Kelley, the bride was radiant in a full length white satin gown trimmed with lace and featuring a cathedral train.

Her attendants wore light blue taffeta gowns.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at Meadowbrook Country Club in Reading.

Following a wedding trip to Bermuda, the couple is now living on Main Street, Stoneham.

The new Mrs. Connor was educated at Somerville High School and Northeastern University. She is currently employed with the Reading YMCA.

Her husband is a graduate of Wilmington High School and Middlesex Community College. He is currently a member of the Reading Y's Men and is employed as assistant program director at Reading's YMCA.

Registration open for creative arts program

Creative Arts for Kids (CAK) and Adults classes is now accepting registration for the winter/spring semester. CAK, a non-profit enrichment program in the arts and music, is offering over 60 art courses and a full music (instrumental and non-instrumental) program for all ages.

Classes start the week of February 3 and are conducted in the Woburn Street School in Wilmington, the Arts Center (25 Woburn St., Reading), and in the four mini-art centers in the elementary schools in Reading. The majority of classes in Reading are on Wednesdays and Saturdays for kids and during the week days and evenings for the adults and teens. Fliers have gone home with the elementary school children in Wilmington or may be obtained at the library.

In Wilmington classes offered to children grade K through six on Tuesdays from 3:30 to 5 p.m. For the kindergarten and first grade children CAK is offering more discovering art taught by Peggy Marrano. Mrs. Marrano has taught kindergarten for seven years in Wilmington, nursery school, story hours, and playgroups. She received her masters of science in education from Wheelock College. In her course children will experience many different types of art media; projects will include magic painting, sponge painting, finger painting, weaving, print making, masks and more. Also included will be songs, games and stories.

'Miracle Worker' at Andover Community Theatre

"The Miracle Worker," the well-known drama about former Tewksbury resident Annie Sullivan, will be the winter presentation of the Andover Community Theatre. Performances will be held February 7, 8, 9, 14 and 15 at Memorial Hall, Doherty Junior High School, Andover.

Actors from Andover, Arlington, Boston, Danvers and Reading are preparing this popular play by William Gibson. It tells of Annie Sullivan, who was hired by the Keller family of Alabama to try to teach Helen, their blind and deaf child, to become more "manageable." The struggles of Annie to win the trust and friendship of Helen are both humorous and poignant. The well-known climax of the play is one of the most dramatic in the American theater.

Annie Sullivan and her brother Jimmie lived for awhile at what is now the Tewksbury State Hospital. A statue of Annie teaching Helen the hand symbol for water has recently been erected on the Tewksbury Town Common.

Tickets are available at the Butler's Pantry on Barnard Street in Andover, or from the Andover Department of Community Services on Bartlett Street in Andover. For additional information call the A.C.T. Hotline (617) 475-4221.

Democrats to caucus

Registered Democrats in Tewksbury and Wilmington will be holding a caucus in their respective town halls on Saturday, February 8, 1986 at 2 p.m. to elect delegates to the 1986 Massachusetts Democratic Convention. The convention will be held in Springfield on May 17, 1986.

Tewksbury Democrats will be meeting after their caucus in the town hall to elect representatives to the March 8th Senatorial District Conference. Tewksbury is in the Second Essex and Middlesex Senate District.

Wilmington Democrats will meet Monday, February 10 at 8 p.m. in the Fourth of July building to elect representatives to the March 8 Senatorial/District Conference. Wilmington is in the First Essex and Middlesex Senate District.

Tewksbury selectman seeks traffic cop for corner of Shawsheen and Main

Tewksbury Selectman Bill Hallisey got the okay from fellow board members to seek funds from businessmen to pay for a traffic officer at the busy intersection of Main and Shawsheen streets.

Saying that traffic lights at the intersection often times fail to effectively handle the flow of traffic, Hallisey said he'd like to see an officer direct traffic on the "key nights" when people go shopping at the Oakdale Mall, Tewksbury Shopping Center and other area retail establishments. Without help, he claims, the traffic backups could reach one and a quarter mile back toward Haffner's gas station. Hallisey said he feared such a traffic jam, which has been known to happen, would prevent emergency vehicles from getting through.

Hallisey said he would approach the store owners in the area and see if they would "pay for a traffic officer on certain days." Placing the officer there, he said, would benefit the shop owners by letting people know there will be a better traffic flow to and from the area.

Even with traffic lights at the intersection, "It's totally impossible to pass through that intersection at night," he said while noting traffic officers funded by the Stadium Plaza businesses on Main Street and by Wang Labs at the intersection of North and Andover streets have kept traffic flowing.

WHS students of the month

Aurelie Smith and Anthony Cutone

Aurelie Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Smith of Catherine Avenue and Anthony Cutone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Cutone of Gunderson Road have been named Students of the Month for January at Wilmington High School.

Aurelie Smith

Aurelie is a member of the Office Education Association, Senior Prom Committee and captain of the field hockey team. She participated in the varsity softball team and is planning to attend Dean Junior College where she will study to become a legal secretary.

Anthony Cutone

Anthony is a member of the National Honor Society. He was captain of the varsity football team and made all-scholastic. He was also on the varsity spring track team for four years. He is interested in music and plays lead guitar for a local pop/rock band. Anthony applied to Harvard and Holy Cross and plans to major in law.

Tewksbury appeals down from 36 to 21

The Tewksbury Board of Appeals will not be quite as busy on January 27th as it was on December 30, 1985 when in one evening the board heard a total of 36 appeals, an all-time record for Tewksbury.

When the appeals board meets on January 27 there will be only 21 cases to be considered. That is not to be described as a small number, but it is smaller than the number of cases in previous months.

With one exception, all the requests for variances from the town's zoning bylaws that will be presented to the board involve houselots in Tewksbury. The exception is an appeal by George Nawn of the Nawn Realty Trust, who is planning the erection of an office complex at 885 Main Street near Nolan's restaurant and will seek a variance to allow that commercial venture.

Tewksbury youth center news

As the year 1985 ended, the Tewksbury Youth Center (TYC) once again became fun. Since its re-opening for the July 4th celebration last year, the center has become a multi-use facility.

It was the starting point for the Lion's road race last year. In October it was the headquarters for the Boy Scouts Jamaboree, was the site of a Halloween party and became the meeting center for the "All Clubs" organization.

In October, Jean Russell became publicity and dance chairman and helped to set up the center's first dance on October 26. That dance was a costume party and prizes donated by many businesses were given out.

The youth attending the dances picked a "Miss Personality" for 1985, Karen Price. The center also had two other dances in 1985 with four more planned for 1986. The next one to be January 25 from 7 to 11 p.m.

TYC has sponsored a ski club under the direction and work of Roy Kinzler. The only club sponsored trip in January will be on Sunday, January 19 to Gunstock, N.H. Lift ticket and transportation cost will be $25 per person. Buses will leave and return at the TYC at 6:30 a.m. - 6 p.m. Sign-up deadline is January 17. There is only enough room on each bus to carry 40 skiers with equipment and one chaperone per bus. Call 851-0107 or 851-9882 for more information. There will be two ski trips in February, according to Roy.

Roy Kinzler is on the board of directors. He may be a quiet man, but other board members say he is at the TYC to chaperone every Saturday night without fail and is a stickler for promptness. Roy also does all the purchasing for the TYC, including the tonic, chips, coffee and other supplies.

Roy has worked very hard to get this Ski Club off the ground by making all the calls and arrangements to get the best prices.

The TYC is now pushing for membership. Sign up for a new membership card either Friday or Saturday nights or Sunday afternoon.

The $3 per year membership fee entitles youth to come down and use the always chaperoned hall for whatever! Dancing, pool, air hockey, or watching tv from a new video cassette recorder.

New members with a blue card should return it to Roy Kinzler who will then issue another one for 1986. These people who give of their own free time so teens can enjoy themselves and to have a place to "hang out" are the board of directors. They are working hard to find many other things of interest to bring to the youth center. They are as follows:

David Harrington, Donna Harrington, Marge Harrington, Tom Horgan, Roy Kinzler, John Collins, Deacon Bill Emerson, Dan and Yvonne Bono, Steve Carter, Betty Costello, and Jean Russell. Our disc jockeys, Lee and Gordon Lutz of Sound-O-Rama, also deserve a hand.

Parental involvement is still needed. Plans call for the formation of a junior advisory council. This will be our project for 1986.

The center received many answers to their plea for help with furnishings. Barbara Flanagan gave Christmas lights, etc. Mary Jane Marcucci gave a really nice sofa. A loveseat came from an unknown donor. John Collins from the TYC's board of directors donated a very expensive pool table and tv.

However, there is still a need for things like rugs, lamps, end tables and especially a coffee table. Also there is a great need for a "Tewksbury Youth Center" sign for outside the building. Anyone who can donate one of these items is urged to call 658-6925.

New curtains, which add a really homey touch to the TYC, were bought with the money received from the first dance. They were picked out by Marge Harrington and Jean Russell and were put up by Frank Harrington.

There are plans in the works for other events at the TYC. Among them are a sleigh ride and a member suggested roller skating party.

Joseph Capistran is off to New Orleans for the Superbowl. He won the trip in a drawing among employees at Raffi and Swanson in Wilmington. Joe, a resident of Chelsea, will make the trip with his father, who is a former employee of the firm. He was presented the tickets by Dick Keane, right.

Ready for 'Super Sunday'?

by Arlene Surprenant
Pity the poor Chicago Bears. So far, those much maligned bears have been beaten, mauled, skinned, torn, caged, buried, and smeared in print and song - all in the name of big bucks, celebrity status, and something called Super Bowl XX. It's enough to make any self-respecting bear go into early hibernation.

Then there are their opponents - the brave, tough, gritty, hard hitting, no-nonsense Patriots, led by destiny and an unassuming heck-of-a-coach named Raymond Berry.

Honestly, it's a match made in Heaven; one that will go down in the annals of football history.

The big confrontation January 26 may well cause the biggest exodus of New Englanders to New Orleans the South has ever seen. Already preparations and hype have reached mammoth proportions, as Patriots fans grab up everything from souvenir programs to Berry the Bear T-shirts and travel agents promise package deals to anyone who can come up with the inflated price.

For those of you who can't quite work up to fever pitch, wouldn't recognize a fumble from a down, or who are still "football widows" at heart, take heart. There are other ways to spend your time on the big day, assuming you can get far enough away from the airwaves, press blitz, and boob tube chatter.

For starters, you can always pay some bills, write a friend, start a diet, wash the car, take out the trash, learn a language, clean out a closet, or have a good cry. You can also buy a new wardrobe, play some bridge, walk the dog or feed the cat, stroll the freedom trail, ride the T, or do nothing at all.

If all else fails, you can always take to the kitchen and get in the spirit of the day by creating a delicious cajun-style meal. Here, thanks to a Betty Spahl adaptation, is a super recipe for a Super Sunday dinner.

Chicken a la creole

One three pound spring chicken; three tablespoons shortening; one-half bell pepper, sliced; two celery ribs, sliced; two medium onions, sliced; one-half lemon, sliced; one-half teaspoon thyme; one bayleaf; one No. 303 can of tomatoes; one eight-ounce can tomato sauce; two chicken bouillon cubes; one-half can water; two tablespoons chopped parsley; three toes garlic; one-half teaspoon basil; salt and pepper.

Cut, clean, salt and pepper chicken. Brown chicken in shortening in dutch oven or deep skillet. Remove chicken. Saute sliced pepper, celery and onions until tender. Add tomatoes, sauce, and water. Add thyme, bay leaf, parsley, basil, lemon slices, and bouillon cubes. Press garlic and add to above. Salt and pepper to taste. Simmer about 15 minutes. Add chicken, cover, and cook over low heat for about one hour or until chicken is tender. Enjoy!

Gillis is candidate for Tech school committee

John M. Gillis, a long-time resident of Wilmington has announced his candidacy for a seat on the Regional Vocational School Committee (Shawsheen Tech) in the upcoming election in April.

John resides with his wife Muriel and two children at 195 Burlington Ave.

John is presently employed as a buyer in the purchasing department at the Market Forge Co. in Everett.

John is:

- A U.S. Air Force veteran.
- Secretary of the Shawsheen Tech Parents Advisory Council and was instrumental in reviving the PAC after it was inactive for eight years.
- Newly elected member of the Shawsheen Tech School Improvement Council.
- Past President Wilmington Youth Hockey.
- Member of Purchasing Management Association of Greater Boston.

John believes that his business experience and his strong dedication to the educational process in Wilmington and at Shawsheen Tech best suits him for this most important position.

The town needs a strong leader representing its interests on the Tech School Committee to insure a quality education for Wilmington students with sound fiscal policies to insure that the town's educational dollar is spent wisely.

It's YOUR Money

by Joyce Brisbois

CASH FOR ESTATE TAXES

Don't be so sure that your heirs won't have to pay estate taxes. Though the federal tax exclusion goes up to $600,000 next year, the value of your estate is growing, too. What's the current value of your residence (and maybe second home), your life insurance, pension lump payments, and whatever investments you've managed to sock away, you're probably worth more than you realize.

Two ideas: first, structure your estate and your will to keep as much as possible out of the hands of the tax collector; talk to your accountant and to a lawyer who understands financial planning. Second, invest in life insurance to make sure that your heirs won't have to liquidate your holdings at the wrong time in order to get enough cash to pay taxes. Discuss with a tax professional whether your heirs or the estate itself will be the beneficiary of the policy. He or she will be able to advise you about what kind of tax bill you can expect, given the amount of your holdings and the state of residence.

Late registration possible for adult classes at Tech

Those who missed Shawsheen Tech's Adult Education registration last week will be welcome to drop in Monday through Thursday to register. There will be no late registration fee. The adult education classes are held at the school, 100 Cook St., Billerica and offers something for everyone.

Some of the programs include electrical code, basic home wiring, jazzercise, photography, word processing, Bridgeport series II, C.N.C. programming, typing, woodworking, autobody repair and much, much more.

In addition, due to high interest, Shawsheen Tech is offering a special course entitled "Project Explore." This is intended primarily for those individuals who are dissatisfied with their present job and would like to know whether they had the ability or potential in another type of work. They can find out by staying in their regular job and enrolling in Project Explore.

After diagnostic testing, a student will enroll in four programs in which they are interested and for which they may be best suited. Each program will last for approximately one month - enabling students to experience four different areas of skill training by the end of the course. The cost of this 60 hour course will be $130 plus a $10 testing fee.

Telephone registration for Community Schools courses

Wilmington Community Schools, Inc. is presently conducting telephone registration for its evening adult education program which begins the week of Jan. 27.

Although many courses are near capacity enrollment, there are still openings available in the following courses:

Antique and furniture restoration, Appleworks, automotive - basic understanding, backyard vegetable gardening, calligraphy, Chinese cooking, craft sampling, crocheting, floral design, GED test preparation, Greek-elementary, modern, Hebrew - elementary, home knitting machine, holiday crafts, knitting, microwave cooking, Oriental rug making, patchwork quilting, basic 35mm photography, intermediate color photography, tile and decorative painting, typing I-beginners, typing II-refresher, woodcarving and word processing.

Due to an overwhelming response, an additional two-night color analysis session has been scheduled for March 3 to 17.

There will also be a one night beginner jewelry-making workshop to be held Monday, March 3.

Space is still available for the shopping trip to the Fall River factory outlets on Saturday, March 15. The deadline for signup for this trip is February 15.

An additional offering of a cake decorating course, to be taught by a Wilton trained instructor, will be given for six weeks starting Tuesday, February 11.

To register for any of the above courses, call 658-8592 or 658-3205 weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Flying
Dunlay

Tewksbury High School senior tri-captain Bob Dunlay flies past a Dracut defender and sinks two of his 28 first half points in Friday night's 74-42 rout at Dracut. Dunlay finished the game with 30 points and the Redmen rolled to an easy victory.

Dunlay, Redmen cruise

Tewksbury High School senior forward Bob Dunlay had his board banging afterburners in high gear at Dracut Friday night, scoring 28 first half points enroute to a career high 30, as the Redmen roundballers rolled past Dracut, 74-42.

Dunlay controlled both backboards throughout the game for coach Bob Melillo's squad, finishing with 10 rebounds, eight on the offensive boards.

Getting
set

Bob Dunlay concentrates on this free throw in Friday night's Merrimack Valley Conference win over Dracut. Dunlay and the Redmen will be setting their sights on the Chelmsford Lions (Jan. 22, 8 p.m.) and the Methuen Rangers (Jan. 25, 2 p.m.) in key MVC contests at the Tewksbury gymnasium this week. See Where the Action Is on page 15 of the sports section.

Cats scare Lowell, 60-55

by Rick Cooke
Sports Editor

The steady improvement of the Wilmington High School basketball program scored two victories and chalked up an important confidence builder last week even in defeat.

The Wildcats ripped through Methuen (51-43) and Dracut (75-46), while coming oh so close to knocking off defending Merrimack Valley Conference champion Lowell, 60-55 in heated action at ShawsheenTech.

"The Lowell game was our best game of the season," offered Wildcat head coach Dave Orndorff. "We showed good patience on offense and shot 54 percent from the field at 21 for 39." What did the Cats in was their 50 percent (13 for 26) mark from the foul line.

Sophomore center Mike Lombard was again brilliant, finishing with 20 points, 19 rebounds and six blocked shots.

Senior forward Chris Parr also played an outstanding game for Wilmington, grabbing 10 rebounds and scoring 15 points.

George Fuller contributed mightily to this near upset with a perfect five for five from the field for 10 points.

The Wildcats followed up this tough setback with a solid 51-43 conquest of Small School rival Methuen.

"We won this game with defense and our free throw shooting, making 25 of 35 from the line," noted Orndorff. "This was a really big win for us. We are really looking like a team now. Playing that well against Lowell really helped our confidence."

Guard Eric Braciska was a key figure in this victory, entering the game with 3:40 left to play and running the Wilmington freeze for over two minutes.

The frontcourt tandem of Lombard and Parr struck again, with Mike pumping in 15 points to go along with 16 rebounds, while Chris came up with 12 points and eight boards.

Also contributing were guard Russ Lydon with 11 points and George Fuller with seven rebounds and five points.

The Wildcats took control in the third quarter, outscoring the Rangers, 17-11. They also limited Methuen senior standout Matt Jozokos to just 14 points.

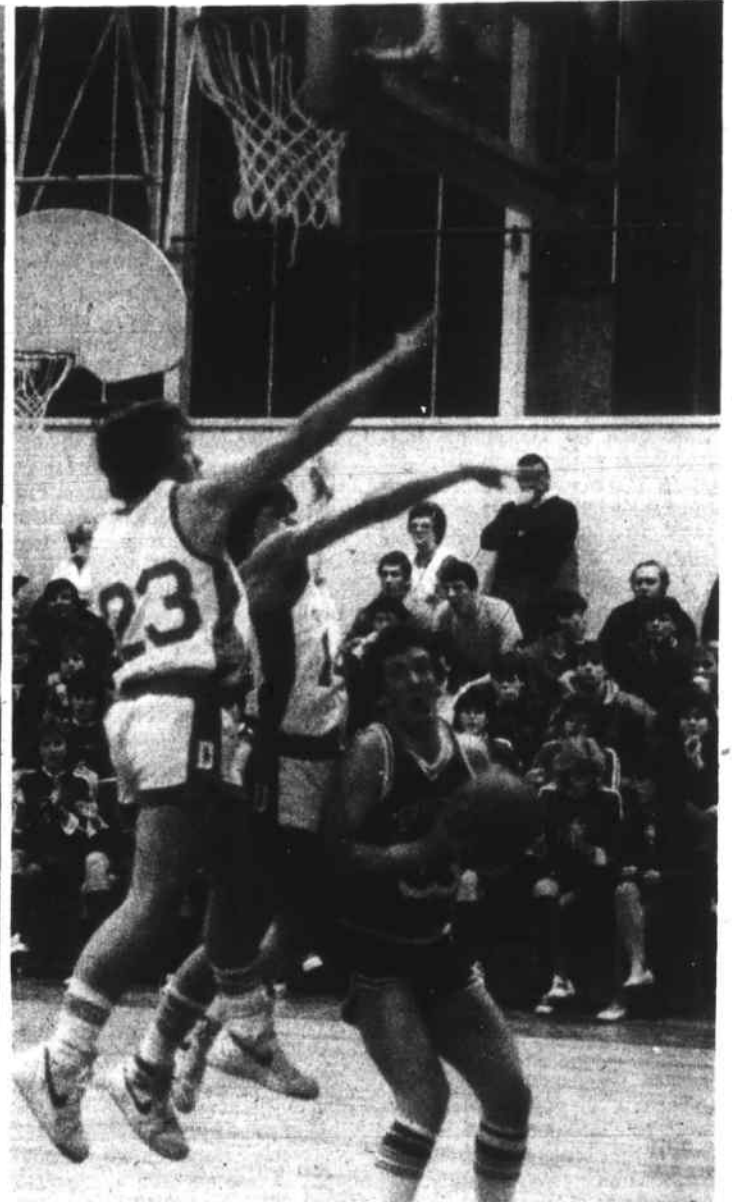

The locals simply controlled Dracut from start to finish in that 75-46 blowout.

Lombard did exactly what he wanted to do for most of the contest, scoring 24 points and hauling down 16 rebounds.

Rob DeSantis was also very solid for the winners with nine rebounds and five points.

The balanced WHS attack featured Mike Stuart (nine), Jim Pelletier (eight), George Fuller (five), Mark Eddy (four), Eric

fake

This pump fake worked wonders for this week's featured standout Bob Dunlay. Dunlay was the leader around both backboards in an easy victory over Dracut. Once a month the Town Crier will feature a Tewksbury or Wilmington athlete in a series of photos. The Dunlay photos are the first of the series. The next series will be featured sometime in February.

Wildcats not denied

Saturday, Jan. 18: The young Wilmington Wildcat eighth grade hoop team traveled to Lynnfield, where the home team would not be denied the victory.

In a 54-52 game, the Wildcats played hard and well, but could not overcome a homecourt advantage.

Jamie Robichaud led Wilmington with 16 points, with Mark Bobek hit for 14. Neal Pentinen followed with 10 points, Jason Oliver sank eight points and Mike Burns went to the hoop for two points. Teammates Joey Mahoney and Mike George each sank one point from the foul line.

Joey McFadyen, Chris Riccio, Brian Gillis, Andy Parr and Sean Colcolough each played a strong game. Scott Tuxbury was sidelined with a hand injury.

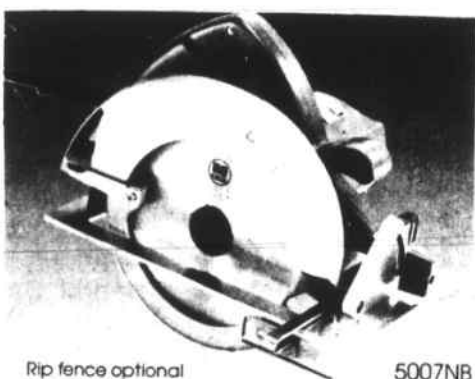

Sunday, Jan. 19: The Redmen of Tewksbury invaded Shawsheen Tech, but took no victory home, as the young Wildcats came away with a 49-35 win.

Stewart's, Farmer crack playoff circle

Stewart's and Farmer and the Del scored semifinal victories in Wilmington Adult Basketball League playoff action last week. The two clubs will now meet in a best two-of-three series this week to decide the league champion.

Stewart's edged Lockhart's, 86-84 after the Lockhart club had whittled a 16 point Stewart's lead down to nothing with one second left on the clock, only to lose when Mike McGonagle (31 points) sank the winning bucket as time ran out.

Bob Stewart (19), Rob McMahon (16) and Mike Winn (16) helped push the winners to victory.

Bob Sgroso and Rob McGinnis pumped in 34 points apiece for Lockhart's. Don Buckler was next in line with 10 points.

Farmer and the Del posted the other semifinal victory with an 85-75 win over Leavitt's.

John McNaughton (22), Paul Burke (15) and Peter McNaughton (14) led the way for the winners, while Leavitt's was paced by Jerry Warren (22), Tim O'Keefe (19) and Vin Ferrara (eight).

The sharp foul shooting of John McNaughton and Neil Wetzler helped ice this FD victory.

In other action last week, Stewart's rolled past A-1 Fish, 93-76 behind the play of Bill McMahon (22), Mike Winn (20), Mike McGonagle (16) and Bob Stewart (16).

The Fish attack was led by Scott Nolan (24), Jon Nolan (16) and Bob Perry (12).

Lockhart impressed with a 72-68 win over Stelio's. Bob Sgroso (24), Don Buckler (17) and Rob MacInnis (12) sparked the winners.

Stelio's was keyed by Mike Herra (27), Chris Lyman (14) and Ray Noel (11).

A summary of recent Wilmington Adult League action.

Stelio's 76 Farmer and the Del 69...George Pratt was red-hot for the winners with 23 points, getting help from Dan Burns with 15 and Paul Lyman with 10.

Rod Millet (19), John McNaughton (16) and Pete McNaughton (12) led the Farmer attack.

Stewart's 72 Leavitt's 69...Mike McGonagle and Bill McMahon split the winning attack down the middle with 16 points apiece. Mike Winn was next in line with 11 points.

Tim O'Keefe (19), Ken Murry (14) and Jerry Warren (11) sparked Leavitt's.

Uncle Micky's 73 A-1 Fish 72...Bob Burns triggered the winners with a game high 35 points while getting good support from Vin Scifio (20) and Bob Dorval (11).

Jon Nolan (20), Joe Caizzi (17) and Bob Ducharme (10) were the A-1 Fish leaders.

Uncle Micky's 69 Stelio's 59...Bob Burns was on fire all night with 46 points, followed by Tom Woods (10) and Vin Scifio (eight).

Jim Fialkowski (18), George Pratt (16) and Mike Herra (eight) were the Stelio gunners.

Lockhart's 80 Sweetheart 75...Rob MacInnis (23), Bob Sgroso (22) and Don Buckler (17) had the hot hand for the winners, while the SP attack was led by Bob Lyman (25), John Carlino (16) and Scott Braxten (12).

Stelio's 89 Lockhart's 78...George Pratt topped the winners with 24 points, getting help from Tony Butler (17) and Jim Fialkowski (10).

Bob Sgroso took game high honors for Lockhart's with 26 points, followed by Rob MacInnis (23) and Ken Buckler (10).

Stewart's 83 Farmer and the Del 60...Mike McGonagle (23), Bob Stewart (20) and Doug Stewart (17) were red-hot for the winners, while the FD attack was paced by the play of Pete McNaughton (21), Earl Paulsen (12) and John McNaughton (10).

Leavitt's 76 Stelio's 68...Jerry Warren (26) and Dave Venuti (10) keyed the winners, while Stelio's was led by George Pratt (20), Jim Fialkowski (19) and Tony Butler (15).

Farmer and the Del 91 Stewart's 87...Rod Millet took game high honors for the winners with 27 points, getting support from teammates John McNaughton (15) and Neil Wetzler (15).

The Stewart's attack was led by Bill McMahon (22), Mike McGonagle (17) and Mike Winn (18).

Farmer and the Del 60 A-1 Fish 54...John McNaughton (19), Rod Millet (16) and Neil Wetzler (12) keyed the winning attack, while the Fish offense was paced by Jon Nolan (16), George Kelley (eight) and Bob Perry (eight).

Stewart's 81 Uncle Micky's 54...Doug Stewart and Mike Winn sparked the winners with 16 points apiece, getting solid support from Fran McMullin with 15. Bob Burns took game high honors for the UM squad with 34 points.

Leavitt's 98 Lockhart's 83...Tim O'Keefe was red-hot for the winners with 25 points, followed by Ken Murry with 18 and Gerard Forgett with 16 points.

Rob MacInnis and Bob Sgroso keyed the Lockhart attack with 25 points. Larry Merry rounded out the offense with 14.

Stewart's 87 Sweetheart 59...Doug Stewart fired the winners with 25, followed by Bill McMahon (16) and Mike Winn (15). Willie Green played his usual

The Tewksbury Department of Public Works, through its Division of Parks and Recreational facilities, is requesting all individuals, groups and organizations who wish to utilize the town's recreational facilities to make application prior to Friday, February 28, 1986.

All league applicants must submit their applications for use no later than this specified date if they plan to utilize Livingston Street Park. All other permit requests for the upcoming 1986 season must be submitted five days in advance of any intended use.

All league applicants should try to have their practice and game schedules ready for review in order for fair and equitable scheduling of all activities. Applicants are advised that only residents and Tewksbury-based businesses will be allowed use of the town's facilities unless there is a waiver granted in advance from the Board of Public Works.

All users of the town's parks, commons and recreational facilities are advised that their continued use of a facility will be judged upon their adhering to all rules, regulations and policies in effect for the order and safety of the general public at all times.

Applications may be obtained at the office of the Superintendent of Public Works at 999 Whipple Road.

Inquiries should be addressed to Mr. Ernest Lightfoot, foreman, at 851-7341 or 851-3502 between the hours of 7 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Torrel (four), Lydon (six) and Parr (six). Joe Maiella and Dave Hamilton notched two points apiece for the winners.
"Lombard just controlled the boards in this game," noted

Orndorff. "This one was over early, and our second unit played well with Stuart and Pelletier scoring and rebounding. DeSantis was just great on defense."

Chamber of Commerce seeks names of past presidents

The Wilmington Chamber of Commerce is attempting to put together a list of persons who were presidents of the Chamber.

It needs to know for the years 1965-72.

The Chamber is also trying to establish dates, etc. on the Industrial Commission of which Ray McNamara was the first chairman. There was a motion in the town meeting on March 12, 1966 to use as a starter in the search. Likewise, the Chamber will be developing a story of the health center and Lil's work in that direction. It is to be believed it started in 1964.

A woman will be in the Chamber office on Monday morning to go through the Chamber files, such as they are. They are not too good. She may be calling you at that time.

Ceilings to be 14 feet in gymnastics area

by Arlene Surprenant
Permanent Building Committee (PBC) members signed several requisitions Tuesday night, including one members had originally refused to sign because it wasn't accompanied by the necessary insurance certificate. This time the certificate was enclosed and members signed for the roofing materials.

Board members also took care of other old business and handled several new matters.

Members went over a letter from Project Manager Paul Scheipers accepting four areas of the high school, discussed at the last meeting, as a change order. The letter stated, in part, that Sciaba Construction Corporation "finds this proposal acceptable and no extension of time for the work of Phase D as a result of this modification will be requested."

It was agreed to raise the ceiling in the training and gymnastics rooms to 14 feet to allow more clearance for athletes, as was requested at the last meeting. Architect Wilson Rains explained that different reinforcements will be needed with this change. They plan to put in steel studs to provide for earthquake resistance, he said.

Chairman Bernie LaVita requested that Construction Manager Stu Lesser begin attending PBC meetings at the beginning of each month to help facilitate requisitions and change order requests. Like the Clerk of the Works, the Construction Manager works in the town's behalf in "jobs of this magnitude," said Diane Allan. Members expect that more change order requests will start coming in and they need justification for them.

PBC members agreed to a plan to provide temporary egress from the small cafeteria. Currently there is only one exit and this is not acceptable in case of fire.

Wilmington Police News

During the week ending January 21, Wilmington police officers responded to 37 alarms, four accidents, one fire, two break and entries, four domestic problems and four disturbances.

Five protective custody detentions were made along with 12 arrests. Seven incidents of suspicious activity were investigated, one stolen vehicle was recovered, two trespassing complaints, two traffic complaints and four complaints involving trailbikes were checked out as were eight incidents of vandalism.

Arrests

Tuesday morning Officer Pat King arrested Ernest Williams, 39 Church St., Woburn on the basis of a Framingham Court/State Police warrant. He was released to Trooper Mininan.

Early Wednesday morning Officer Mauriello arrested Dennis Rose, 2 Morey Place, Lowell on a State Police warrant out of Andover. He was turned over to Trooper Lawless.

Thursday morning Scott Dawe, 23, of 5 Silverhurst Ave., Wilmington was arrested on a motor vehicle default warrant by officers Hancock and Mauriello.

Joey Ryan of Aldrich Road was arrested by Officer McCue Thursday evening on a motor vehicle default warrant.

Friday around 4:30 a.m., Sgt. Joe Duffy arrested Michael K. Melaragni, 21 Cordis St., Wakefield. Melaragni was charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol. He was later bailed for court.

Saturday evening Sgt. Palmer arrested Kenneth Branley, 38, of 42 Jaquith Road, Wilmington on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol and failing to keep to the right of the roadway.

Officers King and LaRivee arrested a North Andover man Saturday shortly after 11 p.m. Jeffrey A. Hunt, 133 Dale St. was charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol and numerous other motor vehicle violations.

Sunday morning Officers Miller and Richter arrested Sean Reardon of Fillmore Drive, Billerica on a motor vehicle default warrant issued by Andover state Police. A second arrest by Miller and Richter was that of Herbert Losh, 19 Independence Dr. Tewksbury on a State Police warrant out of Andover.

Wilmington Senior Topics

Seniors wondering

It is understood that seniors are wondering when, or if they will be moving into the new Senior Citizen Center. According to Edith Cunningham, they can be assured that all seniors are concerned and very anxious to move it, but being novices in the renovation field, it seems one little problem after another arises, but at last everything seems to be falling into place. To complete the beauty of the interior of the building, number one supporter Rep. Jim Miceli has approached on seniors' behalf, Mr. Hallisey of Carpet World for a donation of carpet to cover all the rooms ed by floor tiles or covering. The carpet will be installed soon. If no other unforeseen problem develops the move should be made within a week.

Annual report

As the annual report to the town is compiled, the WCOA is proud of the 13,128 volunteer hours donated by seniors to other seniors not as healthy or as financially able to care for themselves. Also the many hours eagerly donated by seniors at the Shriners' Auditorium working in an assembly line fashion pushing themselves to the limit from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. until 40,000 gift articles collected by the WRKO were sorted and packaged for Christmas gifts to be delivered by employees of WRKO to 10,000 needy children in and around Boston on Christmas Eve. This feat has been broadcast by Roger Allen over Radio Station WRKO several times. He is amazed at the number of work hours volunteered by these seniors on this project. There are 109 seniors in the volunteer program. The program has been recognized by other agencies for which we are very proud. To all the volunteers - thank you.

Whist party

Monday, January 27, the second whist party of the month will be held in the Senior Center starting at 1 p.m. The game is free to all seniors. Prizes are donated by the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs each month. If the winter is getting you down, socialization through an activity program might be the cure. Social Security increase

All Social Security recipients received a 3.1 percent cost of living adjustment in January. Early in 1985 seniors nearly lost this adjustment. The budget resolution approved by the Senate called for its elimination in 1986. It was only after Congress was deluged with letters from seniors was the Senate proposal withdrawn. The seniors in Wilmington can take pride in this cost of living increase along with other older Americans throughout the country. Over 900 letters were made available through the Senior Center on behalf of keeping this increase.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The winter season is upon us again, which means many residents are using their wood/coal stoves and fireplaces. It is of concern that many of the residents are unaware of the proper procedure of disposing of hot ashes.

THE PROPER PROCEDURE OF DISPOSING OF HOT ASHES FOR RUBBISH PICKUP IS:

1. Let the hot ashes stand outside for at least twenty four hours before disposing of them.
2. When disposing of them, after letting them set, please place them in a plastic bag before putting them in the cans.

This will help the workers determine whether or not they are still hot and to prevent any kind of injury from flying ashes, or fires from hot ashes.

Thank you for your cooperation

Clean water not guaranteed

By WILLIAM PACINO

Historically, groundwater has been considered an impeccable source of drinking water, especially when compared to surface sources. Even today, many groundwater supplies receive no treatment or are only chlorinated prior to distribution for home use. If treatment has been required, it generally has been for removal of hardness, iron, or manganese.

But recent data from state and federal monitoring surveys indicates that the groundwater in many parts of the United States is increasingly being affected by relatively high concentrations of inorganic and/or organic chemicals. Many of these chemicals are dangerous to human health. Widespread reports of groundwater contamination, almost on a daily basis, have heightened the concern over the quality of groundwater resources.

This is not to be taken lightly, as groundwater is the nation's most important natural resource. To demonstrate this importance, the usable supply of water contained within the first half-mile of the earth's surface is at least 20 times the amount stored in all U.S. rivers, lakes, and streams. Approximately 80% of all public water supplies in the U.S. rely on groundwater sources.

Contamination by nature

Natural groundwaters contain many chemicals in a dissolved state. As water moves slowly through the ground, it remains in contact with rocks and soil for long periods of time. Consequently, various elements are dissolved from the surrounding soil and rocks, causing the water to increase in mineral content. For example, groundwater which comes in contact with limestone increases in hardness when calcium and magnesium ions are dissolved. If the rock formations consist of silt and clay, sodium and potassium are released into the groundwater. Most bedrock and thus most groundwater running through the bedrock contains iron compounds that impact a metallic taste and rusty color to water.

Groundwater may also come in contact with deposits that can evaporate, such as gypsum and anhydrite. As the water slowly dissolves these minerals, the water becomes bitter or salty.

A paramount worry is that human activities also affect groundwater supplies. Many of the major man-generated contaminants are organic chemicals.

Until recently, there was little concern for organic chemicals. Synthetic organic chemicals, virtually unknown before World War II, are now part of many essential and beneficial products, from weed killers to pacemakers, from rubber tires to synthetic fabrics. Most of these chemicals appear harmless under normal conditions of use and exposure, yet many have unforeseen harmful effects on humans and the environment. Cleaning compounds, paint removers, and insecticides are examples of such potentially toxic chemicals in common use. Also, an increasing amount of fertilizers and pesticides are being used in the U.S. each year. When accidental spills and discharges occur, or when they are disposed of improperly, these synthetic organic chemicals often find their way into groundwater supplies.

Toxic and hazardous organic chemicals have been routinely disposed of in what has now been determined to be an unsafe manner. As a consequence, these chemicals have leached into groundwater supplies.

Contamination of groundwater supplies have become the norm, rather than the exception. Water can be treated to remove the inorganic and organic chemicals that make it harmful to humans, but not easily.

The supply of fresh water is not guaranteed for all time. A great deal of effort will be required to see that the water that sustains all life and activity is fit to use.

Will lighthouses go dark?

Rockport, Maine
MAINE'S coastline must have been drawn by a shaky hand. It is composed of hundreds of islands — so many that even the state's geological bureau has given up trying to count them. This jagged coastline, with its deep harbors and bountiful sea life, fostered prosperous shipping and fishing industries in times past. But it also posed a rigorous challenge to mariners, who had to maneuver around its treacherous rocks. To avert shipwrecks, the federal government legislated the construction of 60-some lighthouses along Maine's coast, more than 40 of them on islands.

Standing at the very edge of civilization, these lighthouses and the keepers who tended them were scarcely more sheltered from the ocean's fury than the ships they helped guide. Many were the tales of seafarers saved by the vigilance of a lightkeeper — and many, too, were the tales of storms sweeping over a little lighthouse island, of keepers running to the towers for safety, and of waves washing clear over the tower, extinguishing the light.

In the United States, the partnership between lighthouse and keeper is on the verge of extinction. The light still remains — technology has yet to find a replacement for a towering beam to illuminate the waters — but no human being is needed to watch over it. Since the 1930s, photoelectric cells have gradually usurped the task of triggering a signal to switch on the light at the day's end. But until 10 years ago, there was no mechanism that could note the rising of the fog. Now, light receivers can sense the fog as far as three miles out to sea, activating the foghorn and eliminating all need for a human keeper.

Endangered property

The disappearance of human activity in the lighthouse worries some people — enough to lure some 200 lighthouse-lovers, from as far away as San Francisco and Florida, to a recent Lighthouse Conference here in Rockport. The conference was sponsored by the Maine Citizens for Historic Preservation and cosponsored by the Maine Historic Preservation Commission. Although there was much discussion on the love and lore of lighthouses, the real concern was preservation.

The lighthouse towers themselves are not in danger, since the United States Coast Guard is still responsible for them. But without a keeper there is no longer a need for most of the adjacent buildings — the keeper's house, boathouse, oil house, barn, and other structures. In the past, the automating of the lighthouse often meant the demolition of these buildings, destroying the integrity of the lighthouse complex. Public opinion has halted this practice. The Coast Guard now recognizes the value of these structures and has begun to work closely with local preservation societies to sell or lease them to responsible caretakers. Yet, until a solution can be found, they must "site harden" the unused buildings against the forces of weather.

The issue is not simple. A listing with the National Register of Historic Places can require site protection, but it doesn't pay for it. And restoration and upkeep are expensive. One current funding technique is to sell the

Time for a joke

January isn't usually the time of year that you associate with a young man's fancy turning to love, but when a friend of ours stopped by the other morning to tell us about some good-natured practical jokes he played on his girl friend, we were convinced that affection can flair up at any time of the year.

My practical joking around was actually a case of good-natured getting even, since my girl friend is one of those who likes to play practical jokes herself.

She came to me the other day with a query. Her ten-speed bike is stored in my cellar (she lives in an apartment with no extra room for storage space), and since it is getting pretty cold outside, she was concerned about preserving the tires on the bike through the winter. "I happened to notice that they're getting a few cracks around the white walls," she indicated.

Preserving her white wall tires on her bike for the winter! Was she kidding me, or what? I decided to find out.

"You know, it's very important that you take care of your tires," I told her matter-of-factly. "Otherwise, you could be letting yourself in for some serious troubles when you take the bike out in the spring."

"Oh, really?"

I wasn't thinking about pulling a practical joke on her at the moment, but I couldn't resist setting her up for the kill. "Yeah, right. The cold can do a job on bike tires. They dry out and crack in no time. Even faster than car tires."

She regarded me with little-girl curiosity. "Well, what should I do? I paid a lot of money for that bike. I don't want to see the tires get ruined right off the bat."

"Don't worry," I reassured her. "All you have to do is rub some oil on them."

This time she darted a quizzical look at me. "Rub oil on them?"

"Yeah, just get some oil and rub it all over the tires with a cloth. They'll stay like new till spring."

"Where do I get some oil?"

"Look around the house," I suggested. "I'm sure there's some oil someplace around here. If not, you'll have to go to the store and buy some."

She sauntered off, in search of oil and a rag. Later she returned with a can of Crisco cooking grease in her hand. She held up the can, displaying it as though it were the jewel of the Nile. "Will this do? I can't find anything else that even resembles oil."

I plucked the can from her hand, pretended to scrutinize the label and then handed it back to her. "Sure, that'll do. It's got an oil base. Yeah, it'll do just fine."

She produced a clean rag, which I immediately recognized as once being the back of one of my favorite flannel shirts, from the back pocket of her jeans. "I just take some oil and rub it into the tires, right?"

"Just rub it into the rubber — make sure you use a lot of elbow grease, and the tires will last twice as long." By this time I was fighting back the urge to crack up with laughter.

She gingerly disappeared down the hall. I heard the cellar door open, and her footsteps lightly descending the wooden stairs.

"Make sure you rub especially hard in between the grooves of the tracks," I hollered out after her. "They need oil just as much as those white walls."

A half-hour passed. I was about to check up on her progress when she emerged, a gleeful look of satisfaction on her face, from the cellar. She set the Crisco can and the rag on the kitchen counter. The top to the can was off, and I could see that she easily used a quarter of the can on her tires. She announced, "Well, I did it. Now I can relax until spring."

I finally couldn't hold back the laughter. The roar came like a wave crashing into the rocks at Good Harbor Beach. "What's the matter with you?" she asked. "Did I miss the punch line to a joke?"

I said, "No, No, you didn't." She lifted one suspicious eyebrow. "I think you'd better get some rest. You've been working too hard."

Well, I thought I'd gotten away with my revenge, until a couple of friends of ours unexpectedly showed up at our house looking for some fume blanc and some good conversation. It began with my girl friend of-fhandedly remarking that she'd just finished rubbing Crisco oil all over her bicycle tires to protect them from the cold. Of course, she had to mention that it was my idea to do that.

At once our friends erupted in laughter. My girl friend suddenly realized that she'd been the object of a practical joke. I thought she was going to pick up a dish and smash it over my head. Practical jokes hate to have practical jokes played on them. It cost me fifteen bucks for a bottle of Dry Creek and another four bucks for the brie.

Later that evening, as we sat around the living room sipping our fume blanc, my girl friend casually brought up the subject of her car. She asked, "Do I have to change the summer air in my tires?"

I couldn't believe my ears! Had she really asked if she had to replace the summer air in her car tires with winter air? A bell went off in my head, telling me it was time to get even for the Dry Creek and the brie. After all, I still owed her a few and she deserved it.

I piped up, "Yeah, honey, you have to take the car to the gas station, let the air out and then re-fill the tires with fresh air for the winter."

I cast a glance at my friend. His wife had slipped off to powder her nose, and he instantly caught on to what I was up to.

"I better take care of that tomorrow," my girl friend said. "Barry Burbank says we're in for some real cold weather soon."

Again, I had to fight back the tears of laughter. This kid just doesn't belong near any kind of vehicle whatsoever. "Don't let that go. I've already put winter air in my tires."

We changed the subject just as my friend's wife returned from the powder room. The next day my girl friend came home from work with a fiery look in her eyes. She slammed the door, and tossed her pocketbook onto the table. It wasn't until she tore off her scarf and popped open the buttons on her coat that she revealed what was on her mind. "I'd like to strangle you," she yelled. "You sent me off to the gas station and let me make a fool of myself by asking the gas station attendant how to change the air in my tires from summer air to winter air. Thank goodness he was only a teenager, or I would have died of embarrassment, you turkey."

Round two of laughter from me. "I couldn't help myself."

"This," she said, "will cost you."

Once again, she had the last laugh. It cost me a dinner out on the town. Over dinner we made a truce: no more practical jokes. I couldn't afford them. Love, I decided, was grand enough without them.

His lecture will be held at The Wellness Center, 299 Main Street, Wilmington on Monday, January 27 at 7:30 p.m. For further information call 658-3638. An interpreter will be available for the Hearing Impaired, call 658-4054 (TTY).

held on February 7, 8, 9, 14, and 15 at Memorial Hall, Doherty Junior High School in Andover.

Actors from Andover, Arlington, Boston, Danvers, and Reading are preparing this popular play, which tells of Annie Sullivan, a native of Tewksbury, who was hired by the Keller family to try to teach Helen, their blind and deaf child, to become more 'manageable'. The struggles of Annie to win the trust and friendship of Helen are both humorous and poignant. The well-known climax of the play is one of the most dramatic in the American theater.

Tickets are available from cast and crew members, at the Butler's Pantry on Barnard Street in Andover, or from the Andover Department of Community Services on Bartlett Street in Andover. For additional information, call the A.C.T. hotline (617) 475-4221.

LEARNING TO LOSE PROGRAM

"Learning to Lose" a medically and nutritionally sound weight control program will begin on Thursday, January 30 at 7 p.m. at the Choate Hospital in Woburn.

Participants will learn how to lose weight and improve nutritional habits and choices through the 12 week group meetings.

Janet Murray, R.D., nutritionist and group leader explained, "we can help people to lose weight through changing eating behaviors, such as slowing down eating and eliminating food temptations. It's better to be patient and lose weight loss; rather than lose five pounds in a week, only to regain it soon after."

This session is for those who need to lose 30 pounds or less and have no medical problems. An orientation session will be held on Thursday, January 30 at 7 p.m. The course is limited to 12 people. There is a non-refundable registration fee.

Pre-registration is required by calling 933-6700, ext. 377.

CAREER PLANNING

A Career Planning Workshop will be offered this month through the Change/Works program for Displaced Homemakers at the Lowell YMCA.

The Career Workshop is designed to provide support for individuals who have spent a number of years at home or in low-paying employment and who must now move to long-term, substantive jobs. Structured activities will allow participants to uncover hidden skills, build confidence, learn job search techniques and plan for seeking immediate employment or job-related training or education. A major focus of the group will be on overcoming fears and negative attitudes which block success.

The Change/Works program is funded by Bay State Skills Corporation and is free to individuals over 30 who have been homemakers and who must seek employment due to divorce, separation, death or disability of a spouse or other loss of income. In addition to the Career Workshop, Change/Works offers individual career counseling and referrals to education and training programs. For more information about the workshop or about Change/Works, call Kathy Desilets at 454-0686.

NEWBURY COLLEGE

In order to meet the demands of students registering for the upcoming Spring semester which begins January 22, Newbury is increasing its office hours. The office, located at 7 Lincoln Street in Wakefield, will now be open Monday through Thursday from 9 A.M. to 7 P.M., Friday from 9 A.M. to 5 P.M., and Saturday from 9 A.M. to 1 P.M.

Newbury College, a two year college, offers associate degree programs within the departments of Allied Health Science, Animal Health Science, Business Administration, Computer Science, Culinary Arts, Fashion and Design, Hospitality Management, Media Technology, and Office Technology. Certificate programs are also offered in many departments.

Anyone interested in registering for classes should contact Suzi Cashman, Campus Director at 245-8297 or visit the admissions office at 7 Lincoln Street, Wakefield.

Newbury College is accredited by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges.

LEARN TO QUIT SMOKING

An improved format for the successful Five Day Plan to Stop Smoking will be offered by New England Memorial Hospital in Stoneham beginning January 26.

As in the past, the course meets for five consecutive nights, (Sunday, January 26 through Thursday, January 30), from 7 to 9 p.m., in the Administrative Services Building on the grounds of NEMH. The new format also includes three follow-up sessions February 3, 10 and 18.

Class members will receive motivational insights and learn effective techniques to quit smoking and get through the withdrawal process. A professional staff, including a physician and health educator will give participants instructions on changing their daily routine to become completely independent of tobacco.

Fee for the Five Day Plan is $55.00. Contact the Health Education Department at 665-1740, ext. 426 for additional information.

TOYS FOR VISUALLY IMPAIRED

The International Institute for Visually Impaired, 0-7, Inc. announces a presentation, by educators and parents, of appropriate toys for young blind or visually impaired children. It will be held at the IIVI Parent Resource Center and lending library at 230 Central St. in Auburndale on Monday, January 27, 12:30 to 2 p.m. at no charge. Children are welcome, and a supervised program will be offered for them. Beverages and dessert will be served.

Books containing patterns for making toys and furniture will be available. Everyone is encouraged to bring toys their visually handicapped children enjoy.

The center is close to the Riverside MBTA, but, if this is inconvenient for you, transportation can be arranged.

Call 332-4014 for additional information.

Austin Prep wins trophy

SINGLES PLANNING NO CHILDREN

A new social group for single people who plan no children has been formed.

"Of Life Minds" was started to assist singles in finding compatible people through profile matchings as well as social gatherings.

In the future, the group expects to take on other unusual but critical compatibility criteria.

Singles may plan no children due to medical reasons, such as sterility, need for special medication that precludes pregnancy, or genes that may cause disease, deformity, or predisposition for serious medical conditions.

Others feel no instinct or urge to have children, and simply whether the other's children can live with them or must be living elsewhere, and whether adoption is an option, and so on.

For additional information, contact "Of Like Minds", P.O. Box 818, Marlboro, Ma. 01752.

Even Republicans like 'Rap Master Ronnie'

By DOUG BOYLE

BOSTON — When jokes about the administration of President John F. Kennedy first started during his presidential years many people said it was a relief after the dry years of President Dwight D. Eisenhower. It was believed that Eisenhower was safe from pokes of humor because he did not do anything.

If this theory is true, then President Ronald Reagan must have one of the most active administrations in the history of the office. And, Boston's Next Move Theatre is currently offering one of the most successful examples of the humor being brought out at the expense of the present administration.

It has been said of "Rap Master Ronnie," "it is so funny even Republicans will laugh at it."

The fast paced musical was conceived and written by the team of award winning composer Elizabeth Swados, and "Doonesberry" creator Gary Trudeau during the 1984 presidential campaign.

During the fall of that year, the show first opened to a highly successful six-week run at New York's Village Gate. Since then "Rap Master Ronnie," has been produced in Los Angeles, and in Chicago, where it is still running.

The success of the show in Boston has been attested to by the fact that an original four-week engagement has been extended to an open-ended booking.

Much of the success in the show lies in the fact that Trudeau allows some of the misnomers and faux pas of the President to form the basis for the satire without creating something that has not happened. The pacing of the music, written by Swados, also contributes to the thought provoking attitude of the show.

And while many shows have seen good writing and musical scores ruined by a cast that is less than perfect, this is not the case with "Rap Master".

Drawing its name from today's rap music fad that is the background for break dancing, the beat, to be successful, takes a lot of energy.

The cast has the required energy, and even more important, has the control of that energy so that the audience becomes involved without being overpowered.

Successful satire does not make decisions for the audience, however, it should provide enough material to provoke thought on the issues. "Rap Master Ronnie" does this and probably gets some people to take in more information than any newscast.

The energy was so good on the night this show was reviewed, the absence of Robin Thompson (as Nancy Reagan) was not noticed.

By cutting a song and using Melanie Frueh Williams as the First Lady in the rest of the scenes, the illness of one of the stars was ably covered.

Jim Morris did an incredibly good job as the president, to the point that when he came out for a curtain call, one had to think before recognizing him as a character.

Patty Holly also contributed to the performance, especially during the "Take That Smile Off Your Face Number." Holly is the type of actor, who if she does not get you with the lyrics of the song, her frustration will show through physically by its end.

Be prepared to be uncomfortable through one or two of the numbers especially during "Victims," the story of Reagan's visit to a West German Cemetery.

You will also want to be prepared to think while this show is going on, but at the same time, enjoy yourself no matter what your political persuasion.

"Rap Master Ronnie" can be seen at the Next Move Theatre on Boylston Place. Be advised to call for reservations as the show has been playing to close to sell out crowds.

Tidbits

A federal district judge has awarded $1.25 million to the families of three lobstermen who drowned in a storm that the National Weather Service failed to predict, reports National Wildlife magazine. The judge had ruled earlier that the agency was liable in the deaths because it had neglected to repair a weather buoy.

buildings under an easement plan. This can give a preservation society control over the appearance and use of the property, while requiring the new owners to cover the maintenance costs. But William Swartzbaugh, director of the Lighthouse Preservation Society, warns, "Just as people without a purpose fail, lighthouse property without a use is not going to last."

A family, a garden, and a cow

Lighthouse life was an isolated one, with only one's family and the glory of nature for company. Some of the islands were wooded, with a bit of dirt for a garden and enough grass to keep a cow. Others were nothing more than a granite slab. Still, at each tower lived a keeper whose life was dedicated to maintaining the light in all weather. Before electricity, oil kept the light going — whale, colza, porpoise, or mineral oil. The thick glass prism lens that refracted and magnified the light had to be constantly cleaned, because of soot from the burning oil. And twice each night, the keeper had to wind the weights that rotated the beam; each light was set up to flash distinct patterns, called "characteristics," which distinguished it from neighboring ones.

Alone on their islands, lighthouse families grew strong and sizable. Milton Corbitt knew that well. He grew up at the Little River lighthouse, east of Machias, along with his seven brothers and sisters. His father, Willy Corbitt, was keeper there for more than 20 years. Milton's grandfather was a keeper on Libby Island, just north of there.

"If you couldn't be best pals with your brothers and sisters," Milton recalls, "you'd better forget it."

Karen McLain at Kennebec

Some say that lighthouse families were large because it took several people to carry out the tasks that the self-sufficient remote life imposed. Extra hands were needed to paint the lighthouse tower and stairs, watch the light when the keeper was away on a supply trip, help with the garden, or row a boatload of hay across from the mainland to feed the cow.

Others joke that lighthouse women enjoyed bearing children, because it brought them a rare treat — an extended visit off-island during the births. Regulations were strict in the Lighthouse Service, and similarly so in the Coast Guard, which took over the Lighthouse Service in 1939. Men could row off-island daily, if the mainland was close enough. But as recently as 1968, the Coast Guard ruled that women were allowed off-island only in a Coast Guard vessel, and that came around but once every two weeks.

Betsy Norton, wife of keeper Tom Norton of the Burnt Island lighthouse, just outside Boothbay Harbor, remembers that she accepted this regulation her first year, watching her husband venture ashore daily for the mail, knowing that while she was left to tend the light, he would have an hour to chat with friends on the mainland.

The next year, she says, she bought her own boat.

New uses

It is these memories, and the sites that inspired them, that lovers of lighthouses seek to preserve. But what use is there for a building on an island battered by storms and the salty sea, reachable only by boat, with no water, septic system, or electricity?

A variety of solutions came forth at the conference here. A California island light-house, reachable only by boat, has recently become a favorite bed and breakfast. Other lighthouse structures, including Maine's Grindle Point Light on Islesboro, and Pen-aquid Point Light, are museums of lighthouse life, maritime lore, or local history. Mt. Desert Rock has been maintained and used by Allied Whale, a research project under the auspices of College of the Atlantic. Matinicus Rock is a field station for the Audubon Society's Puffin Project. Eventually, a shelter for stranded mariners will be built there. Others, like Bass Harbor Head Light, Burnt Island, and Cape Henry, are Coast Guard dorms or homes, while still others have become choice vacation spots for the Coast Guard brass, reserved a year in advance.

Mr. Swartzbaugh suggested some other ideas, focusing on reuse strategies that might generate enough income to cover the maintenance of the buildings, and possibly even their restoration. He says alternative uses that provide public benefit range from "a protective wildlife refuge to a mixed-use recreational area that might encompass a campsite for the Sea Scouts, a reception center for whale-watchers, or windjammer cruises." Sites that lend themselves to outdoor gatherings could feature art shows, open concerts, and conferences.

'Lover's light'

The lighthouse tower remains a romantic symbol in the public's heart.

In the late 1960s, when the Coast Guard sought to simplify the identifying characteristics of lighthouses, the Guard cast a critical eye over Minots Ledge, the light that stands at the entrance to Boston Harbor. It had a rather complicated characteristic, flashing once, then four times, then three times. But when the Coast Guard officials announced a plan to simplify the pattern, they were inundated with complaints. The Coast Guard had tampered with romance: Minots Ledge light was known as "lover's light," flashing once for "I," four times for "L-O-V-E," and three for "Y-O-U." The Coast Guard restored the old pattern.

North Suburban YMCA battles the Sharks

The North Suburban YMCA Boys' Swim Team traveled to Melrose recently to do battle with the Melrose Y "Sharks" and came away with victories in two out of five classes. This was the boys' first dual meet of the season and many swimmers achieved outstanding times, not only winning their events but getting closer to New England qualifying times.

Chris Sheppard of Winchester single-handedly took on the Class E (8 and under) "Sharks" as he registered two first place finishes in his events; a 1:51.15 in the 100 yard Individual Medley and a 43:36 in the 50 Free. Great things to come are expected of this young (6 year-old) swimmer. Despite Sheppard's valiant efforts, the E's lost this contest.

The Class D (9 and 10) boys were one of the winning groups of the day. Ben Sheppard, Winchester, started the ball rolling with an amazing first place finish of 1:20.36 in the 100 yard I.M. He also achieved a first place in the 50 yard Fly with a super 35.20 which qualifies him for the YMCA New England Championships.

Billy Jansen, Wilmington, and Ricky DeMinico, Woburn, registered a first and second in the 50 yard Free with times of 34.14 and 35.88, respectively. These times were also personal bests for both swimmers. Billy Shuh, Winchester, did a great job of placing second in the 100 yard Free with a B time of 1:18.04.

The 50 yard Back also saw the Class D Vikes achieve a 1-2 finish with Jansen taking a first in 41.97 (a B time) and Andrew Hall, Winchester, taking second with a 45.14.

In the 50 yard Breast Melrose took their only first and second place positions, but Ricky DeMinico, Woburn, achieved a close third with a PB time of 49.06, bringing his to within less than 1.5 seconds of a B time. Mark Connorton of Woburn also swam in the 50 yard Breast.

The NSYV D boys placed well in both relays. The 100 yard Medley Relay team of Jansen, DeMinico, Sheppard, and Connorton scored a 2:41.65 to take second place while the 100 yard Free Relay team of Greg Luongo (Wakefield), Richie Saxe (Burlington), Shuh, and Hall (both of Winchester) came in first with a 2:41.59.

The other winning group of the day were the Class C (11 and 12) boys. EJ Anderson of Woburn posted a first place in the 200 yard Free with a 2:16.14 and another first place in the 50 yard Fly with a 34.38. Brad Swallow, Reading, took a first in the 50 yard Back while Mike Driscoll, also of Reading, won going away in the 100 yard Free with a time of 1:09.42.

Dave Murman, Lexington, came in second in the 50 yard Breast with a 44.54. A 2:14.57 in the 100 yard Free Relay gave the team of Anderson, Driscoll, Murman, and Swallow a decisive first place finish in that event.

The Class B (13 and 14) boys swam valiantly and came close, but just missed out to the Melrose Sharks. Derek Anderson of Woburn swam a 26.27 to take first place in the 50 yard Free. Tony Cerrato, Arlington, and Kevin Flatley, Reading, came in second and third in the 200 yard Free, respectively. Derek Murman, Lexington, was second in the 200 yard I.M. with a 2:33.70 while David Saxe of Burlington was second in the 50 yard Fly with a 1:28.04. Cerrato was second in the 100 yard Free with 1:12.50 and Anderson finished second in the 500 yard Free. Flatley and Murman were second and third, respectively, in the 50 yard

Spotlighters present 'Apples and Oranges'

The Silver Lake Spotlighters, Inc. will present three performances of a new musical play Thursday through Saturday, January 23 through 25, at 8 p.m. at the United Methodist Church, Main Street, (Rte. 38), Woburn.

Apples and Oranges, with book, music and lyrics by Lauren Cochran and musical arrangements/additional songs by Mario Cruz, is a funny, touching look at community theatre and the people in it.

From the ordeal of auditions, through the weeks of rehearsal, to the exciting climax of opening night, this original musical reveals the theatrical process and its participants with keen wit and genuine fondness.

All the familiar "types" are on stage — the outrageous prima donna and the shallow-but-handsome leading man, the homosexual and the stud, the sweet soprano and the tough techie, the not-very-talented chorus person and the overly-diplomatic producer, the burned-out director and, a rare find, the real actor. Apples and Oranges goes beyond these stereotypes, however, and reveals the real-life sensitivity and vulnerability of these very special individuals who populate the "community of theatre".

The company, under the artistic direction of Celia Bartolotti and musical direction of Mario Cruz, features Joseph Daisy, Douglas Desilets, Marianne DiMare, Maria

DiMartino, Suzanne Fall, Tom Freeman, Candace Hopkins, Kelley O'Leary, Arthur O'Malley, Marguerite Rigoglioso, Mary Sheehan, Nancy Tutungian, and David Warnock.

For reservations or further information, call Mary Sheehan at 387-4972.

Symmes Stress Training

Are your neck or back stiff at the end of the day? Are you experiencing headaches more frequently? Or are you experiencing anxiety or frustration?

Everyone today in our modern, hectic world is under a certain amount of stress. Though stress can be positive and motivating, constant stress can be hazardous to one's health.

As the stress level increases, so does the blood sugar level, heart rate, blood pressure and respiration. Because of the adverse reactions of stress on the body, it is important to develop skills and learn techniques for managing stress.

The Community Health Education Department of Choate-Symmes Health Services will conduct workshops on "Managing Your Stress" to help people acquire stress management techniques. The course will be offered at the Symmes Hospital division on Wednesdays, January 22, 29, February 5 and 12 from 7 to 9 p.m. The workshop instructor is Janet M. Maier, R.N., M.P.H.

Topics to be included in the course are: effects, symptoms, and causes of stress; an exercise to assess one's own stress level; the "Type A" personality; and the various methods to reduce stress

A relaxation training tape and a packet of materials will be included. The course is limited to 15 participants. To pre-register, call Symmes Hospital Community Health Education Division at 646-1500, ext. 2291.

Woodchips

By ANTHONY MANCONI

Memories, memories, of days of long ago. I have fond memories of my older brothers and sisters using expressions like this, "You're the Cat's Meow." "Thanks for the buggy ride." "Gee Willikens!" "Cute as a button." "Twenty-two skidoo." "Head for the Roundhouse Nellie, he can't corner you there." I'll bet some of you readers can think of some that I have forgotten. There is one thing that I'd like to forget, like playing hide-and-seek and no one would even bother to look for me.

I remember Raymond Carey, our milkman who would leave four quarts of milk every morning on the steps of Johnny Nolan's house next door. Unfortunately, Johnny's father died so that Mrs. Mary Nolan told Ray, that she could not afford paying for four quarts of milk and to leave only one. "Mrs. Nolan," Ray said, "as long as I'm the milkman on this route, there will be four quarts of milk on your doorstep every morning for you and your four children."

Those were the days when the answer to the Bible question, "Am I my brother's keeper?" was a resounding "yes." A Quaker gave this advice to his sons, "When you go a-courting, keep your eyes wide 'open.' When you are married, keep your eyes half 'closed.' Come to think of it common sense would prevent many divorces because it would prevent many marriages."

When I was courting my wife Kathy, I asked her, "should we stay 'happy' like this or should we get married?" "I wouldn't marry you if you gave me a million dollars," she snapped. Then she said, "if you were my husband I'd poison your tea." "And if you were my wife," I said as I ducked a left jab, "I'd 'drink' it!"

Jimmy Stewart of Burlington is a double for the late Errol Flynn. I told him that he should go to Hollywood — the walk would do him a lot of good. A lady at the race track asked me if I had a safety pin. "No ma'am I'm sorry." She asked another gentleman and he apologized too because he didn't have a safety pin either. Just then the loud-speaker blurted out in a booming voice, "They're off!" and the poor lady fainted. A young man asked the beautiful young lady he was dancing with, what he would have to give her for a kiss? Her one word answer was, "chloroform!" "Well," he said "if you refuse me I will die." She refused and sure enough he died — 69 years later.

Artie Perrin, a recent high school graduate asked a silver-haired research chemist, "What do you do sir?" "I study science." "Oh," Artie exclaimed, "I finished science last year."

Tom DiCesare met his lovely wife Darlene and it was love at first sight and they are happy indeed. Darlene is the daughter of my friend, Sgt. Al Avola of Woburn. I first met my wife Kathy in the revolving doors of a department store and we've been going around and around ever since. Our usual Saturday night fight last week was relatively calm — only two police cars were needed.

Folks, if by chance you didn't begin this day with a smile, it isn't too late to practice for tomorrow. When a man devotes all his attention, time and energy for things money can buy he generally loses what money can't buy — respect, love and happiness.

Warren Church of North Reading said to me, "there is no way that I can get away from you, my wife has to read Woodchips in the Transcript aloud, then I'm up in Maine near the Canadian Border when from the car radio I hear, 'Here's the Beachcomber.'" What Warren is saying is that I'm on radio two times a week and yes I am the Beachcomber.

Be sure that your conversation generates more "light and heat." "That was a damn fine sermon Father." "Well, I appreciate the compliment but I don't like your choice of words." "It was such a damn fine sermon that I put a $10 bill in the collection basket." Now Father Murphy knows that being overly generous is not one of my virtues so he exclaimed, "the hell you did."

Joe O'Brien and John Frawley reported to the Boat Shop in the Boston Navy Yard years ago to start their apprenticeships. Joe Sovello, the supervisor said, "start by sweeping the shop floor." "We came here to learn to build boats, not to sweep floors," they said. "Someday you will be supervisors," replied Joe "and you'll tell other aspiring boat builders to first learn to sweep and maintain a clean work area." That someday came soon for Joe O'Brien, for six years later he topped the civil service exam, and as a supervisor that the first thing he told apprentices to do — "learn to sweep the shop floor, for you must first learn how to 'climb a hill' before you can ever hope to scale a mountain."

From my personal experience I have never seen better built fishing boats, retrievers or 40-foot whale boats than those built by Nova Scotians, Swedes or French Canadians. These men are without exceptions, "Men of Integrity." The keels, ribs and planks of every boat are put in place as if their own sons would sail on them. These men formed the Keystone of the Boat Shop of the Boston Naval Shipyard. So, Joseph Brodeur, Bernie Melanson, Oscar Swanson, Charlie Johnson, Henry Brown and Bill Chase, I consider myself fortunate to have worked with you.

We can't all be "heroes" — someone has to sit on the curb and applaud as they go marching by. The Triple A is always concerned about safety on the highway. Two special friends of mine are featured in the latest publication of "AAA World." They are Mass. State Policemen, Sgt. James C. Sartori of Stoneham and a fan of Woodchips and Trooper Joseph F. Howley, with Col. Anthony J. Grillo, Mass. State Police, Deputy Superintendent and Frank J. Trabucco, Commissioner of Public Safety. The lovely lady representing "AAA" was Caroline J. Hymoff.

I received two Christmas presents that I think are great. John McCurtin of Wilmington sent me an "Italian coffee cup," with the handle on the "inside." Howie Murphy gave me a recording of Dennis Tully singing "Galway Bay," in Gaelic. On the morning of the Battle of Waterloo, Napoleon walked into a shoe store to buy a new pair of boots and took one deep breath and gasped saying, "I smell 'de-feat!'" You know folks, it's better to 'wear' out than to 'rust' out. "I found this fly in my raisin bread!" "Woodchipper, give me the fly — here's a raisin."

Flowers bloom in winter

In the cold of winter, any way to bring on the thought of warmer times is desirable. On February 15 & 16, the Massachusetts Orchid Society will present its Annual Orchid Show at the Lexington Armory, Rts. 4 & 225, Exit 44W off of Rt. 128, in Lexington. Orchid exhibits is staged by New England, Florida and California growers, with cultural workshops, a film and plant sales also featured. The hours Saturday 9 AM to 9 PM, Sunday 10 AM to 5 PM.

RHCW health programs

The Regional Health Center in Wilmington (RHCW) is offering a variety of new and innovative exercise programs to meet the needs of special interest groups in the community.

In addition to the current aerobic dancing, Fitness After 50 and Body Sculpture classes, RHCW is offering programs specially designed for men, including those over 50; teens, those with arthritis and those who are overweight and not accustomed to exercising.

Fitness Workout for Men will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays beginning January 28 with a beginner class from 5 to 5:50 p.m. and intermediate/advanced class from 6 to 6:50 p.m. Those interested will be tested to determine their level of fitness prior to the start of the program. This total workout includes aerobic exercising to strengthen the cardiovascular system and flexibility and toning exercises for the various muscle groups.

Paul Bertrand, community health educator, will be the instructor. His program will combine strengthening, conditioning and aerobics for a total workout.

Exercise for Overweights Only will be held on Mondays and Wednesdays, beginning January 27 from 11 a.m. to 12 noon. It will be conducted by Janet M. Murray, MS., R.D., also group leader for Learning to Lose weight control groups and RHCW nutrition counselor. Her background includes exercise physiology.

This program will be designed for the overweight adult who has not exercised on a regular basis and is looking for a comfortable class.

The pace will be tailored to the abilities of the participants and will combine stretching, toning, conditioning and some aerobics within the limits of the participants' ranges. Proper techniques for exercise will be demonstrated.

An Arthritis Exercise Program will begin on Monday, January 27 and will be conducted on Mondays and Wednesdays from 10 to 11 a.m. by Bridget McCane, community health educator, who has a background in sports medicine.

The goals of this program include flexibility and range of motion while decreasing rigidity, enabling the participants' affected areas to be less painful. Those with arthritis will find the program beneficial for increasing their abilities to conduct activities of daily living.

A teen aerobic dance program will be held on Mondays and Wednesdays, beginning January 27 from 4 to 5 p.m. taught by Thalia Herman of North Reading. She has been teaching adult aerobic and Body Sculpture at RHCW for the past two years.

All programs consists of 8-week sessions, except the Arthritis Exercise Program which is a six-week session. Pre-registration is required by calling 657-3910, ext. 567. Class sizes are limited to 12 participants.

The Regional Health Center in Wilmington is a division of Choate-Symmes Health Services.

Admission is $3.50. For further information, call 326-6500 or 524-5150.

Healthy Heart

Those who consider themselves at risk for a heart attack can learn how to beat the odds in New England Hospital's Healthy Heart classes, 7 to 9 PM, Tuesdays, beginning Feb. 4.

Each Healthy Heart class participant will have a coronary risk profile done, including lab work, to test for cholesterol, triglycerides, HDL, LDL and glucose. Blood pressure screening will also be provided. Class discussions, films and written material will cover the facts and fictions of heart disease, including how nutrition relates to a healthy heart.

For more information, or to register, call 665-1740, ext. 426. There is a $45 fee.

Women in Jazz

A rare gathering of some of the top women jazz musicians in America will take place Feb. 5 to 7 at Tufts University in Medford.

This sixth annual "Tufts and All That Jazz" program recognizes the contributions of female jazz players and composers - a group neglected in accounts of American musical history.

Blues singer Betty Carter will be the featured performer. International jazz performer Toshiko Akiyoshi, considered by many to be the leading jazz composer for big bands, will perform, conduct master classes and work in concert with the Tufts Jazz Ensemble. Studio Red Top will also perform.

Tickets for each performance will go on sale the week of January 20 at the Tufts Arena Theater box office on the Medford campus. For more information, call 628-5000, ext. 3250.

Wine, women and song

The American Vocal Arts Quintet, Boston's chamber soloists, will present a Valentine's Day program entitled "Wine, Women and Song" on Friday, Feb. 14, at 8 PM at the Longy School of Music in Cambridge. The concert will feature works composed by women and about women and romantic love. Tickets may be reserved by calling 437-0231. Mastercard and VISA are welcome.

American Vocal Arts
Quintet

BOSTON'S CHAMBER SOLOISTS

The work of women composers is currently enjoying an explosion of attention and "Wine, Women and Song" will feature songs by Fanny Mendelssohn Hensel, Clara Schumann, and Liza Lehmann. In addition, Stephen Foster's "I Dream of Jeannie", "Ellen Bayne", and "Jenny Jung" will be performed, as well as a repeat of the Boston premiere of Massett's "Chansons des Bois d'Amaranthe".

Understanding how to preserve a healthy heart or examining the beauty of a spring orchid, COMING ATTRACTIONS moves in a great many directions to discover the best and most interesting. But we are always in need of a little more, and if you have knowledge of events of interest to all, write, care of this local newspaper and tell us all about it. We can't live on "wine, women, and song" alone - almost, but not quite.

Dance the Night Away!

We know planning a party can get to be quite hectic! All that worrying over renting a hall, booking a caterer, contacting all of those people, and especially hiring a good disc jockey. We would like to eliminate some of that worrying for you. We have those songs that bring back great memories from the 1940's, with Duke Ellington, Benny Goodman, and Glenn Miller, right up to the 1980's with Lionel Richie, Van Halen, and Huey Lewis. So, give yourself a break and give us a call. We will be glad to talk to you, and hopefully you will be glad to talk to us. We want you to stop worrying and start DANCING THE NIGHT AWAY! For more information call Scott McCauley at 245-6089 or John Hawkes at 245-1814.

GOOD VIBRATIONS
Fun personality DJ spends great music and entertains live. Good time music to spark wedding or functions. Call 246-0891.

JOY & DELIGHTS
LET US Entertain you with a sound and light show with the feminine touch. Call D. J. De or Joy at 438-8436. TFS

"LET THE GOOD TIMES ROLL"
A word about our business philosophy: We feel there are three key ingredients that make a fun time. The Disc Jockey, the music and most important of all - you! At our company we try never to lose sight of this fact and our years of experience have taught us that when you do a good job you'll be rewarded with new business. Yes, price is important but as with all things in life it certainly shouldn't be the deciding factor. While we possess some of the most modern equipment available including lights etc., it's really the music that makes the night, which is one reason we do not use pre-recorded tapes or other props - just records, literally thousands at your disposal. Our musical format includes songs from the 20's right up to today's hits. Naturally references are available and we've been critically acclaimed in Boston Globe Magazine and you'll also find us in Boston Magazine as well as local publications. By the way, no party is too large or small, we do them all - from a house full to a hall full. We are also the wedding specialists. So there you have it. Great music and good times. Isn't that what your next function should be? "Let the Good Times Roll". We play the music of your life. Call Paul Lazzara at 944-4617. You'll be glad you did!

Make 1986 A Better Year

With all the extra expenses winter brings (Christmas bills, ski vacations, college tuition?), it's hard to afford too much free time. But now you can turn 24 or 30 of those hours each week into dollars with the IRS during our busy tax filing season. Our Andover Service Center, at Routes 93 and 133 (Exit 43), is hiring part-time seasonal Data Transcribers for immediate and future openings—jobs that pay well and require no experience. Here's all you have to do:

1. Pass a very basic Civil Service Data Transcriber Test
2. Complete our paid Data Training Program
3. Choose your schedule:
Monday-Friday, 6 PM to 12:30 AM;
Sunday-Tuesday, 4:30 PM to 1 AM;
Wednesday-Friday, 4:30 PM to 1 AM.

You'll earn $5.49 per hour plus 10% night differential after 6 PM and incentive pay based on performance (half of our data employees get incentive pay every payday). U.S. Citizenship required.

APPLY NOW: Early applicants will have the best opportunity for selection of available shifts.

The IRS's Andover Service Center also offers generous benefits, including sick leave, paid holidays and free parking.
Start earning money for those winter bills by signing up today! For more information, call us collect at (617) 681-5627. Or come to the Andover Service Center any Thursday by 6 PM sharp for the Civil Service Test. No appointment is necessary! 20-22

FULL-TIME Seasonal Data Transcribers

Make 1986 A Better Year

The IRS's Andover Service Center is looking for Data Transcribers. These are well-paying positions and require no experience—all you have to do is:

1. Take a Civil Service Test, a Data Transcriber Test and attend our 40-hour paid Data Training Program
2. Pass the tests and complete the training, and you're eligible to be hired as a Data Transcriber at $220 per week plus incentive pay, based on performance. (50% of all data employees receive incentive pay every payday.)
3. The Civil Service Test also qualifies you for clerical positions

NOTE: Applicants hired for these positions become our main source for permanent year round positions.

These positions are available now. So don't wait. Come in this Saturday. Day and night shifts will be available. The IRS Andover Service Center offers you a generous benefits package, including annual and sick leave, paid holidays, 10% night differential and plenty of free parking. U.S. Citizenship required.
